Gorgeous Pageant And Circus at County Picnic

Trained Acrobats Will Vie With Trained Animals in Furnishing Amusement at Ulster County Picnic Next Wednesday—Stupendous Aggregation of Talent Procured After Prodigious Effort by Circus General Bernstein.

Back in May it was announced that this year's Ulster County Farm and Home Bureau-Kingston Chamber of Commerce Picnic program would feature one of the most marvelous and spectacular circus performances ever shown in any civilized nation. To put this enormous feature at across Circus General Sam Bernstein, Jr., has traveled far and wide in a stupendous effort to corral together the best class of trained animals, clowns and acrobatic performers known to exist in captivity. It was in South Carolina that he located the trained monkeys, trained elephants and the super-intelligent gruffs. From the stables of one of the greatest horsemen of the age he obtained a troop of trained saddle horses, and so on and on until at last the entire group was assembled. Needless to say after months of searching it was in Ulster county, New York, where he was finally able to locate most of the really great animal and human actors so necessary for a great performance. And it was in the neighboring county of Orange where he met and engaged the "Super-Ring Master" Shorty Greene, who will have command of the big show.

A great deal could be written describing and depicting the acts and scenes that will be seen throughout the entire performance. Time and space forbid. The skeleton program follows:

Ring Master, "Shorty" Greene. Music by Citizens' Band. Director, Prof. Harry Malsenholder.

I. A prodigiously produced and picturesquely presented patriotic pageant.

II. Davenport Cavalcade, a riding act. Educated horses—introducing sensational and unique feats of horsemanship—the greatest team of Charleston horses ever exhibited. Horsemen—Asa Relyea, Kenneth Davenport, John Davenport, Bill Bennett.

III. Juvenile Tumblers—The world's greatest tumbling team in feats of daring, just returned from a two-year European engagement. Tumblers—Roger Keough, Garry Shook, Jerome Lehr, David Levy.

IV. "Betsy"—The Powderous Pachyderm, the largest specimen ever exhibited. The only shimmying elephant. "Betsy" Francis Davenport. Ben Davis. Trainer Shorty Greene. Keeper Stanford Alexander Rickard.

V. Baton Manipulator—R. A. "Dick" Bernard Obeaus, late with the world renowned Sousa. Watch him close.

VI. Herman the Great—Unchallenged for strength—Marvel of the age. First appearance in this country, direct from his home in Limburger, Germany. W. Davis Hawk.

VII. Acrobatic Dancing—Something new, up-to-date, a sensation from the south, imported for the occasion at a great deal of expense. Roger Keough.

VIII. Balancing Act—An act full of thrills—Just returned from a long tour of the continent. Ralph Mann.

IX. Cyas La Zarabella—and his troupe of Darwinius Jazz Babes. Cyas La Zarabella, R. Coddington.

X. Monkeys—Frank Relyea, Jerome Lehr, David Levy.

XI. "Fut" Neumann of Eldora, Iowa—World's Champion Horseman. Exhibitor, an exhibition of fancy horse-riding.

XII. Grand Finale—Our State's Finest Captain Fox and his wonderful troupe of south riding State Troopers. Enough said.

$75,000 Stolen From W.C. Durant

Jewels Valued at That Amount Stolen From Home of Auto Magnate—Authorities Try to Keep Loss Secret.

Deal, N. J., Aug. 13.—Seventy-five thousand dollars in jewels were stolen from the home of William C. Durant, automobile manufacturer and stock market operator, it was learned today.

Extraordinary precautions were taken by both Durant and the authorities to keep the loss secret, even after an arrest had been made in the case.

John Morelsack, who was a butler for Durant until a few months ago, was arrested and held in jail at Freehold on an open charge. John J. Quinn, prosecutor of Monmouth county, refused to tell Morelsack's lawyer, Andrew Stokes, why the latter was being questioned about a burglary. Stokes said he would take the case into court unless a specific charge was made against the butler and Morelsack was released.

Detectives are working on the case.

Seeking Bids For Reservoir

Equalizing Reservoir for Kingston Water Department to Be Built on Modica Farm on Sawkill Road—Bids to Be Opened August 23.

Kingston is not going to draw on the Binnewater Lakes for its water supply at the present time, although the city water department is advertising for bids for the construction of "the Binnewater reservoir."

According to one of the members of the water board the term "Binnewater" means any inland pool, and is used in that connection in the advertisement, which, to say the least, is proving very confusing to the many who have read it.

The bids being asked are for the construction of the equalizing reservoir which is to be constructed on the Modica farm on the Sawkill road, about half a mile beyond the Cherry Hill Farm.

The advertisement is for bids on "Contract C" which calls for "laying about 3,500 feet of 24-inch and 24-inch cast-iron pipe and for building the Binnewater Reservoir, with earth and rock embankments, gate-chamber and appurtenances."

All bids will be opened at a meeting of the water board to be held on August 23.

Pay Promptly Campaign Here

The Merchants' Credit Association, organized and owned by five hundred members covering the counties of Ulster, Greene and Delaware, is inaugurating a "Pay Promptly Campaign" which opens on August 16 and closes on September 15.

The object of the campaign is an educational one. It has been inaugurated to educate the buying public to the need of keeping its credit good, as a reputation for paying bills promptly is a valuable asset.

The Merchants' Credit Association believes that when a consumer seeks credit he should be in a position to meet his payments when they become due. No one should needlessly go in to debt unless he can see his way clearly to meet his obligations.

In order to bring the campaign before the buying public an extensive advertising campaign is being inaugurated in the newspapers. The first of the series of advertisements will be found in The Freeman this evening.

FIND FINGER PRINTS ON VANDERBILT JEWEL BOXES

Newport, R. I., Aug. 13.—Finger prints on the jewel boxes taken from the villa of Mrs. Cornelius Vanderbilt and found on adjacent estates proved the real clues today in efforts to trace the gem robbery. Fully seven prints on "The Breaker" were questioned and a check-up was made of the guest list at a recent house party at the villa. Surely enough said the Vanderbilt loss may reach $500,000.

The circus performance to be seen absolutely free of charge anywhere in the United States and Canada. It is a laugh with every laugh and everyone is welcome at Forest Park on Wednesday, August 18.

Points in Judging Ulster County Picnic Parade

Grange Organizations and Business Firms Preparing to Enter Floats in Big Parade Preceding Ulster County Picnic Here on Wednesday.

Interest is increasing daily in the decorated float contest to be held as a part of this year's Farm and Home Bureau-Chamber of Commerce Picnic parade. Word has been received at headquarters that the various Grange organizations are to be particularly well represented. Business firms in Kingston are calling in frequently for information regarding the contest.

Chairman Sutlin announces there are no special set of rules to govern although such necessary factors as being on time for the parade is very important. The judging will be done according to a uniform score card, on the basis of 100 points for a perfect score. The following scale of points will be used:

I. General Appearance. (a) Attractiveness 15 points (b) Arrangement 15 points (c) Workmanship 15 points (d) Color 15 points

II. Subject (Is Subject Worthwhile) 20 points

III. Accomplishment (Did exhibit accomplish aim) 20 points

The judges are Stanley Putnam, secretary of the Hudson Chamber of Commerce; Henry Hoag, secretary of the Poughkeepsie Chamber of Commerce; Mrs. Edward Young, president of the New York Home Bureau Federation; E. A. Flansburgh, central office of Farm Bureaus; Miss Vera McCrea, Dairyman's League; E. L. Chase of the C. L. F.

All floats should be at the Strand not later than 9:45 standard time. The judging will take place in the big bowl at the picnic grounds and the cups will be awarded as a part of the afternoon's program.

K. of C. Request Before Kellogg

American Secretary of State and Knights of Columbus Commander Confer—Will Make No Announcement About Meeting.

Washington, Aug. 13.—An official request that the American government intercede to protect the rights of Catholics in Mexico was laid before Secretary of State Kellogg today by James J. Flaherty, supreme knight of the Knights of Columbus.

Flaherty presented the resolutions adopted at the Knights' recent Philadelphia convention in which the attitude of the Mexican government in the present religious controversy was sharply assailed.

President Coolidge suggested that Flaherty lay the resolutions before the state department.

Kellogg and Flaherty went into conference at 11 o'clock.

The state department has received numerous protests on the Mexican religious trouble. To all of these it has replied that this government intended to keep hands off the present controversy because it felt that the question was purely an internal affair, and warranted no action unless lives and property of Americans were jeopardized.

Flaherty was accompanied by D. J. Callahan, treasurer of the Knights of Columbus.

At noon, after the conference had been in progress for an hour, Kellogg, Flaherty and Callahan adjourned to permit their pictures to be taken.

"No announcement whatever will come from any of us about meeting," said Kellogg to newspapermen. Flaherty supported Kellogg's statement.

It has been strictly agreed at the beginning that neither side would discuss the conference, Kellogg added.

After their picture had been snapped by numerous news photographers, the three men retired again to Kellogg's office to resume the discussions.

Freed of Charge. New York, Aug. 13.—Paul Scialano, owner of a roadhouse near Albany, N. Y., was freed today on Long Island city court on his arraignment as a fugitive from justice in Wallingford, Conn., in connection with the murder there of Robert Demola, known as the "Black Kid". Demola's body, hidden by bullets, was found in a vacant lot at Wallingford.

Ex-Ambassador Impoverished. Paris, Aug. 13.—Alexander P. Moore, former United States ambassador to Spain, who underwent a slight operation for an infection of the knee yesterday, was reported as making excellent progress at the American Hospital today.

Struck By Van Neglect. Harold Hatfield, of Jerseyburgh street, who was fined $30 in city court yesterday, states that the van he was driving did not strike the bicycle owned by a boy named Quirk. He admitted, however, that he struck the boy.

Returned to New York. The steamer Homer Randall of the Central Western Line will leave for New York on Sunday. The boat leaves at 4:45 a. m.

Pastor Wilhelm To Marry Son

Former Kingston Clergyman Interrupts Son Who Was About to Be Married by City Clerk in New York—Prefers to Perform Ceremony Himself.

Clasping hands nervously, they stood side by side in the Municipal Building Chapel, says the New York World of today. Facing them was City Clerk Cruise, clearing his throat in preparation for the, to him, old, old story. A thousand just such young, not altogether assured couples, had passed through his expert hands. But this one was different. He had not had time even to begin the words of the wedding ceremony, which slip so deftly from his accustomed tongue before the door flew open and the elopement, for such indeed it was, was over.

However, there is no occasion for tears. The marriage will take place, but not in the Municipal Building.

The romance does not rise to the high, fictional level of grim obstacles in the path of true love.

Gerard Wilhelm, twenty-two, and Miss Helen Brogan, nineteen, had come to the marriage license bureau alone, obtained their license and were waiting for Mr. Cruise to come back from lunch to complete the ceremony.

The record showed that Wilhelm was the son of the Rev. Frederick P. Wilhelm, pastor of the Messiah Lutheran Church at No. 609 West 204th street, and the girl is a daughter of Harry Brogan of No. 126 Kingston street. While they were waiting, Dr. Wilhelm, whose voice sank to a faint whisper of surprise when he heard the news.

"Why, no; impossible!" was his first reaction, but then: "Yes, they have known each other for a long time, but we did not know they expected to marry just yet. Are they married already?"

A few minutes later he asked Assistant Chief Clerk Jimmy Gannon the same question and explained. It was Gannon who burst into the chapel just in time, or just too soon depending on the point of view, crying: "Mr. Wilhelm, Mr. Wilhelm."

Gannon then explained to Mr. Cruise and the young couple that Dr. Wilhelm wished to marry them himself. The city clerk cleared his throat again, advised them to have the ceremony performed that way, returned to them their $2 fee and sent them away home. Dr. Wilhelm later said the wedding probably would take place tonight in his church.

Dr. Wilhelm is a former pastor of Emmanuel Evangelical Lutheran Church of Livingston street, this city, and he and his family have many friends in this city and vicinity.

Hungary Has Munitions Blast

No Actual Loss of Life Has Been Reported as Yet But Twenty-four Persons Are Missing—150 Reported Injured.

Budapest, Aug. 13.—No actual loss of life has yet been reported in the explosion of the Hungarian munitions factory here, according to an official statement issued today.

The statement declares that twenty-four persons are missing and 150 are reported injured and there has been extensive property damage.

The statement announces that the police are searching for communists who are believed to have been responsible for the explosion.

The first explosion occurred at 7 o'clock last night and was followed rapidly by three others.

Practically all of the hundred buildings of the plant have been wrecked.

The plant was located at Csepel Island, about ten miles out of Budapest.

Windows for many miles around were broken and people at considerable distances were shaken by the blasts.

Two Men Struck By Automobiles

Half Eaten while crossing Broadway near Canal street on Thursday.

Two men were struck by the automobile of Michael Petroff of No. 117 New York street and knocked down, Mr. Petroff was bruised about the head but not seriously injured.

James Caporali of the Flank Road while driving his car on Broadway Thursday struck and knocked down Curtis Peterson near Thomas street. It was reported that outside of a shaking up, Mr. Peterson was not injured. Officer Leonard who investigated the accident ascertained that Caporali was operating without a license and placed him under arrest. Caporali furnished bail for his appearance in police court.

R. V. C. House. The Roundabout Club will hold one of its semi-monthly dances this evening at the Club House for members and their friends. Fred Deane, a member of the club, has been elected to furnish the music for the evening.

New York Storm Leaves Death and Damage in Wake

One of Worst Storms in City's History Caused Death of Three, Destruction of Property Valued at $1,500,000 and Many Injuries—Train Service Halted.

New York, Aug. 13.—Three persons died and property valued at $1,500,000 was destroyed by the storm that swept through New York late yesterday, sixty persons were injured and one more may die as the result of the disturbance.

For more than two hours, lightning played among the skyscrapers of lower Manhattan while an intense rainfall flooded streets and subways. More than 100 buildings were struck by lightning and 16 fire alarms were turned in.

The worst traffic jam in the history of the city occurred when the subways were flooded and trains halted. One train was stalled midway between two stations and several persons were injured by broken glass or trampled by fear-crazed passengers.

The dead: Stanley Carpenter, 15, killed by lightning at Hightstown, N. J. Mrs. Ellen O'Connell, 74, who fell four stories to death when she attempted to close an open window during the storm.

Alexander Friedman, 58, heat prostration. Patrick Reilly, subway motorman, struck by lightning, is not expected to live.

Tubes under the East river were still partly flooded at an early hour today.

Philadelphia, Aug. 13.—A severe electrical storm which descended on New Jersey and New York last night, causing thousands of dollars property damage, halted all train service on the New York division of the Pennsylvania railroad. It was unofficially reported here early today.

Trains were stalled when tracks were inundated, making travel over them dangerous, it was said.

Many trains between Philadelphia and New York were halted at 2 a. m. today, railroad officials said. Emergency crews were rushed to the scene of reported washouts and worked throughout the early morning to relieve the tie-up.

Washington, Aug. 13.—Railroad traffic between New York and Washington was demoralized today following the big storm late yesterday. The first train to arrive here from New York came in at 9 o'clock, more than seven hours late.

Service out of Washington was interrupted.

BRITISH MINERS APPEAR READY FOR PEACE TALK

Secretary of the miners' federation, today appealed to the government to invite the miners to meet the government with a view to arranging a national agreement, a national minimum wage schedule, and to discuss the reorganization of the mining industry.

This move by Cook was believed to indicate that the miners are ready for peace negotiations, but are not prepared to call off the coal strike unconditionally.

MORE AMERICAN CASES IN PARIS DIVORCE COURTS. Paris, Aug. 13.—Official confirmation was secured today of reports that the Paris divorce courts have granted a divorce to Mrs. Carl Flaherty, the former Jean Watts. The Flahertys were married in Indianapolis.

Confirmation was also secured of the divorce of Mrs. Percy Chandler, the former Nancy Krebs. The Chandlers were married at Winchester, Va.

$21,000 Stolen From Mail Bag. San Francisco, Aug. 13.—The mysterious disappearance of $21,000 in currency from a mail bag between Los Angeles and Washington, was being investigated by postal inspectors today. The mail bag arrived at its destination it was noticed that the bag had been tampered with. About $2,000 in silver money remained in the sack.

Scott Begins Sentence. Chicago, Aug. 13.—Robert Scott, taken to the police station after a fight to learn a life sentence for his part in the slaying of Joseph Mauser, drug clerk, here today. His trial had been postponed because of his illness.

Mexican Press Department. Mexico City, Aug. 13.—Publication of a press department to facilitate the dispatch of news concerning Mexican affairs to the foreign press, is being considered by the government.

Progressive Fight. Rome, Aug. 13.—Marquise To Pinde has postponed his plans to start an attempt to bring further world peace, pending further trials of his campaign.

Twelve Killed in Russia. Leningrad, Russia, Aug. 13.—Twelve persons were killed, seven seriously injured and twenty slightly injured, when a train was derailed today at the Leningrad station.

Woman Drowned In Rondout Creek

Mrs. Millie Fitch, 87 Years Old, Leaped From Upper Deck of Steamer Odell—Body Recovered Short Time Later—Had Been in Ill Health.

Mrs. Millie Fitch, 87 years old of Union City, N. J., was drowned in the Rondout Creek about 3 o'clock Thursday afternoon when she leaped from one of the upper decks of the steamer B. B. Odell of the Central Hudson Line, as the boat was about to leave for New York city.

Mrs. Fitch had been visiting at the home of Miss Laura Johnson of No. 316 Fair street, and had been under the care of Dr. Frank A. Johnston while here. She had apparently recovered her health sufficiently to make the trip home.

Accompanied by Miss Johnson they boarded the Odell and Miss Johnson leaving Mrs. Fitch sitting in a chair on one of the upper decks descended to the main deck to purchase the tickets. When she returned it was to find Mrs. Fitch's hat on the chair and Mrs. Fitch missing.

She inquired of the stewardess if she had seen anything of Mrs. Fitch and received a negative reply. Then, happening to glance over the railing, she saw Mrs. Fitch's body floating on the water.

An alarm was sounded and the body was quickly recovered, but Mrs. Fitch was dead when drawn to shore.

Coroner W. Norman Conner was notified and took charge of the remains.

Miss Johnson was expecting to return with Mrs. Fitch to Union City when the tragedy occurred.

A prayer service will be held Saturday morning at 10 o'clock at the undertaking parlors of W. N. Conner, 302 Fair street. Interment in Woodlawn Cemetery, Brooklyn.

Mrs. Fitch is survived by one son, Harry S. Fitch, of Union City, N. J.

Three Burglaries At Ellenville

A series of burglaries occurred in Ellenville this week and authorities are working on the solving of at least three crimes of this nature. The McMullen store, the Terrace Hill Hotel and the Melvin Strouse residence have all been entered and money and jewelry stolen.

Some time after midnight Tuesday burglars entered the store of Thomas McMullen on Canal street and got away with cash and jewelry valued at $200. Entrance to the store was made by forcing the back door.

Wednesday morning at 3 o'clock two men in an automobile robbed the Terrace Hill House casino, getting away with a small quantity of merchandise and money.

The Strouse home, it was learned Thursday, was entered some time ago and $100 stolen. The home was again entered this week, when $50 was stolen.

A complaint reached authorities early Thursday morning that a resident of Granite had been "frisked" of $40 at a roadhouse near Ellenville. It appears that the man was dancing with another man, when his partner took two $20 bills from his shirt pocket.

When the Rev. Mr. Fischer testified he bet $50 on a horse at "Byrnes" he added that he did not return to find out whether he had won or lost.

"You may have something coming to you," remarked Justice Heffernan. Fischer testified that at "Byrnes" he engaged in conversation with a man named Wells. He said he asked Wells if the places were not taking "an awful chance in running so wide open."

"Oh, no," Fischer said Wells replied, "It has been going on for years and the officers have never disturbed the houses."

Hearing Closed. Ballston Spa, N. Y., Aug. 13.—The investigation into gambling at Saratoga Springs, ordered by Governor Al Smith, came to a close here shortly before noon today.

Brooklyn Woman Slain in Home

New York, Aug. 13.—Mrs. Rose Di Palo, 30 years old, was found slain in bed at her home in Brooklyn today.

The crime was discovered by her daughter, Della, nine years old. Terrified, she ran to tenants in the building who called the police.

The police said they judged from the extreme mutilation of the body and the condition of the room, that the woman had been murdered with an axe although none was found.

An axe was later found not far from the body.

She was the mother of four children.

Her husband, Antonio Di Palo, is a laborer. He was in the habit of leaving for work at seven o'clock each morning.

Neighbors said Mrs. Di Palo was an attractive young woman and that she frequently went out alone to the "movies" dressed in her best clothes.

His wife told the police that because of her husband's habits she had frequently quarreled with her.

ARREST BOY ON CHARGE OF STEALING BICYCLE

William Hovatt, 15 years old, of No. 15 Meadow street was arrested Thursday by Policeman Feltman on a charge of stealing a bicycle of James Quinn of 9001 street. The boy will be arraigned later in children's court. There have been a number of bicycles reported stolen lately in the city and Hovatt is the first to be arrested charged with helping himself to another's machine.

Was Fractured Collar Bone. William Blauvelt of West Haverhill, a laborer in the employ of the state department, was brought to the Kingston City Hospital Thursday for treatment for a broken collar bone.

Drummed Mischief. Sunday evening, August 15, at the Market Theatre, Edw. Thompson will be seen in dramatic sketches.

Gambling Probe Nears an End At Saratoga

Supreme Court Justice Heffernan Likely to Close Probe Very Shortly—Defendants Not Expected to Take Stand in Their Own Behalf.

Ballston Spa, N. Y., Aug. 13.—The investigation ordered by Governor Al Smith into gambling conditions at Saratoga Springs, which is being conducted in the local court house by Supreme Court Justice Christopher J. Heffernan of Amsterdam, may be brought to a close today.

District Attorney Charles B. Audrus, Sheriff Arthur G. Wilmut and Dr. Arthur J. Leonard, commissioner of public safety, charged with permitting "wide open" gambling at Saratoga, are not expected to take the stand in their own defense. Charges against the three officials were made by Peter A. Finley, president of the Saratoga Taxpayers' Association, in a petition to Governor Smith requesting the investigation.

High spots in the investigation are:

Testimony by Jules C. Formel, ex-convict, that District Attorney Audrus accepted $50,000 from Arnold Rothstein of New York city, an alleged gambler, in 1920, for the privilege of opening a gambling house.

Reading of an affidavit signed by Sol Rosenberg of New York, in which it was charged that Governor Smith would "whitewash" the investigation.

Testimony of the Rev. Harry B. Fischer, superintendent of the Metropolitan district of the New York City League, that he placed $5 on a horse at Byrnes, an alleged gambling house, which Fischer was supposed to be a "mystery" witness.

4—Jailing of three men by Justice Heffernan for refusing to testify. These men are still behind the bars and the court said today they would remain there until they were ready to "talk."

5—A charge by Formel that his life had been threatened because of his testimony at the investigation.

In an effort to prove that gambling does not exist at Saratoga the defense called Detective Sergeant Hugh Dorsey and Detective Patrick Rox of the Saratoga police department. Both testified that they knew of no gambling houses, and Detective Rox went so far as to say he would not know "a pool room anyway."

Dorsey testified he had visited several suspected places but never had been able to find any evidence of gambling.

When the Rev. Mr. Fischer testified he bet $50 on a horse at "Byrnes" he added that he did not return to find out whether he had won or lost.

"You may have something coming to you," remarked Justice Heffernan. Fischer testified that at "Byrnes" he engaged in conversation with a man named Wells. He said he asked Wells if the places were not taking "an awful chance in running so wide open."

"Oh, no," Fischer said Wells replied, "It has been going on for years and the officers have never disturbed the houses."

Hearing Closed. Ballston Spa, N. Y., Aug. 13.—The investigation into gambling at Saratoga Springs, ordered by Governor Al Smith, came to a close here shortly before noon today.

LINCOLN ELLSWORTH NOW A MILLIONAIRE

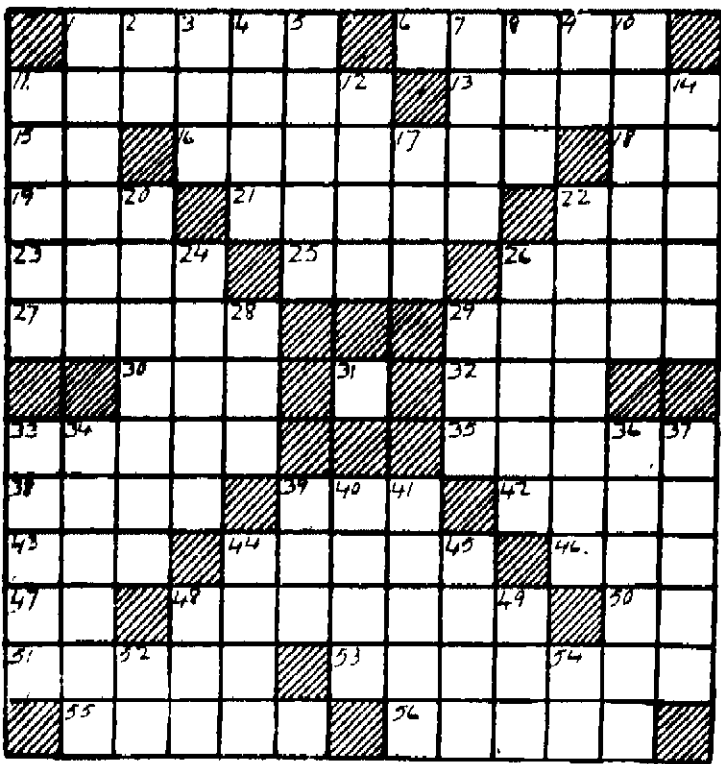

New York, Aug. 13.—Lincoln Ellsworth, American flyer who accompanied Roald Amundsen on the Norge polar flight, is a millionaire today. The will of his father, James W. Ellsworth, left $1,207,318 to the son.

The father died while young Ellsworth was listed as "missing" last year during his attempted airplane flight to the pole with Amundsen. Worried over his son was not held responsible for the father's death, members of the family said.

Ellsworth was a backer of the Norge expedition. He made a fortune as a coal operator and maintained a large residence in Hudson, O. He died at his Italian villa at Florence, Italy, on June 2.

State Shriners Want Hospital

Shrine Nobles Will Discuss Crippled Children Hospital—Location of Next Institution to Be Built by Masonic Body Will Be Considered During Uta Convention.

When the ten Shrine Temples of New York state convene in Utica on September 24, the location of the next hospital for crippled children which Nobles of the Mystic Shrine have been financing during the last four years, will be discussed.

Much publicity has already been given the establishing and maintaining of hospitals and mobile units, and recent figures show that since the first hospital was built in Shreveport, La., in September, 1922, seven other hospitals have been opened. These are located in Minneapolis-St. Paul, San Francisco, Calif., Portland, Ore., St. Louis, Mo., Montreal, Canada, Springfield, Mass., Chicago, Ill., and mobile units in Honolulu, H. I., Spokane, Wash., Salt Lake City, Utah, and Winnipeg, Canada.

These institutions have a total bed capacity of 500 and more than 4,000 patients have been admitted, of which 3,375 have been discharged as permanently cured.

The hospitals, property and equipment represent an investment of more than $4,460,000, which is collected by an assessment of only $2 per year for every member of the Shrine.

Temples in New York state have been sending their young patients to the hospitals located at Springfield, Mass., and in the building program outlined by the Imperial Council four additional institutions will be finished.

The Shrine Council of the state of New York has made a bid for one of these and, while no definite decision has been given, it is possible that sooner or later one will be located here. Although the city where it will be built has not been selected.

That the Shrine gathering on September 24 in Utica will attract many nobles who are members of the various temples in New York state is evidenced by the fact that acceptances are coming in daily.

Recorder Albert R. Pankow of Ionia, Mich., Buffalo, has expressed the acceptance of his temple in a letter in which he says: "I assure you we are looking forward to the meeting with a great deal of pleasure and expect to be there with bells on, to such an extent that all the natives will sit up and take notice."

Tigris Temple of Syracuse is not only sending every member of its uniformed units, but has promises from over half its membership to form an automobile caravan and enter into every event planned. Illustrations Potentate Raymond E. Porter will head the Syracuse delegation.

High Falls, Aug. 12.—Mr. and Mrs. Edwin Longan, Jr., and child of Yonkers are spending their vacation with his mother, Mrs. Edwin Longan.

Mrs. E. D. Kortright spent Monday afternoon with Mr. and Mrs. Grant Young in Kingston.

Mrs. Martha Charles and sister, Miss Kate Dewey, are visiting friends in Kingston.

Miss Frances White of New York is spending her vacation with her grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Hiram Gheare.

Mr. and Mrs. M. E. Kelley of New York, who are spending their vacation at the Jansen farm in company with Mr. and Mrs. C. Jansen, enjoyed a motor trip to Niagara Falls.

The sum of $200 was realized by the Ladies' Aid Society from the sale of articles at their supper and fair.

Mr. and Mrs. Ann Clearwater and Mrs. G. Stokes spent Sunday at New Paltz.

Miss M. C. Van Wageningen has returned to her home after spending several weeks at Kingston.

Mrs. Charles Lee of New York is spending some time at the home of Mrs. Anna Backman.

The Woolsey family of Kingston are enjoying the summer at their bungalow here.

Joseph Switzer of Poughkeepsie is a guest at the home of his brother, George Switzer.

Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Jansen have been entertaining relatives from Pennsylvania. On their return home Mrs. Jansen and son, Kelton, accompanied them and she will spend some time in and about her home town.

Mr. and Mrs. Eli Dewey and daughter, Gertrude, motored to Shannan recently and called on the Rev. T. S. Smith.

Mr. and Mrs. N. Schrum of Baltimore were guests of Mrs. E. D. Kortright this week.

THOMAS A. EDISON

IN LIGHT EATER.

simplicity is the key-note of the life of Thomas A. Edison when in court, according to Edgar Towne, writing in the August issue of Home Camera and Township.

This quotation applies particularly to the inventor's diet which is extremely light. His breakfast consists of fruit, cereal, toast and coffee, while lunch is either oatmeal or cornmeal.

Somehow the inventor's only beverage in the morning is hot water. During the day he munches chocolate bars and occasionally drinks bottled ginger ale refrigerated in the morning.

Mr. Edison has organized his own dining truck and other equipment which he takes on his camping trips.

Belt and Girdle on Fashion Card

Necessary Now Used Conspicuously on Nearly Every Daytime Frock.

It may be that the long bodice with its attached circular skirt or flounce created the necessity of something more than a cord to mark the dividing line. Or it may be that the straight, unbroken line had palled, and the straight frocks now have a break in the neck to hem. Perhaps the gradual adoption of the very unimpressive fashions of men of days of ruffled shirts, ruffled shirt fronts and buckled knees brought back the belt and girdle. It now is used rather conspicuously on nearly every daytime frock. Even when the flounce or the several graduated ruffles are attached to the straight skirt quite as low as the knee, the girdle is worn around the hips. Sometimes two small belts define this line and two more small belts trim the frock around the bottom.

When the line from neck to hem at the front must be kept straight and unbroken, in case a jabot extends below the point of the hip line, some other trimming of the kind is used, the belt goes all the way around the hips and fastens under the jabot. Sometimes a scarf is used and the ends are tucked under the belt at the front in the way the old-fashioned chemise was used, but, of course, with the longer waistline.

Girdles best liked for the summer dress are in the form of the gypsy girdle, softly folded all around and brought together at the front with an upward sweep and caught under a sash, a bow with ends, or an elaborate ornament of some kind.

Afternoon Dress, Green Suede Tailored Belt, Brass Buttons.

This is the case of an evening gown. These gypsy girdles have brought back into the shops clasps and ornaments that have not been used for a very long time. The very ornate silver and rhinestone buckles that have been put away a good many years and new ones in imitation of emerald and Pampelune jewelry are used on some of the new models. Tailored belts are in all widths from the wide Spanish belts to the very narrowest inch-wide affairs. That very material is used is proved by a glance at the gowns in every shop. Those made of the material of the frock are about an inch and a half wide, a little more of a belt than the usual "string" we know so well. Sometimes they are two inches wide. Generally they are in the color of the body of the dress. If a contrasting belt is used, it is often of leather, cloth or kid or made of metal ribbon or cloth.

Claret Kid Shoes, Late

Paris Mode in Footgear. Blood satin slippers, lately so much in vogue, have successors in shoes of claret-colored kid, now being worn by most afternoon gowns of what shade. Paris fashions show every indication of this becoming a craze equal to that of its predecessor, which developed the feet of midwinters as well as grand dames in blood satin. The shoes of today, to be chic, must have a complicated ornamentation of buckles, stitching and the like, done in a darker tone; so these shoes of claret color are trimmed with slender bands of lacquered or painted leather in beige, maroon and tan. Other models are shown in beige or gray. Though these are second favorites to a true claret color. As the opera Paris for some time, it is especially popular in these new light-colored shoes. Stray models, however, retain a certain degree of favor.

Paris shoes for afternoon are rarely of patent leather with intricate decorations of studs being the choice at these occasions when a black shoe is demanded.

For Evening Wear

Dressing dresses are much worn and considered. One model has a full skirt draped in the manner of a woman's wrap and another very Egyptian-looking bodice with a full skirt of small, thin, lace of which the bodice is made.

Coolidge Favors National Airways

Secretary Hoover Believes That Commercial Companies Will Be Operating Planned Over Transcontinental Route in Six Months.

White House Camp, N. Y., Aug. 12.—The first great national airway were approved by President Coolidge today.

The first is to be known as "The Transcontinental" and will extend from New York to the Pacific coast terminating at Los Angeles or San Francisco.

The second is to be known as "The Southwestern" and will extend from Chicago to Dallas and to North Texas.

The transcontinental airway will serve Cleveland, Chicago, Iowa City, Des Moines, Omaha, North Platte, Cheyenne, Salt Lake City, San Francisco and Los Angeles.

The southwestern airway will serve Chicago, St. Louis, Kansas City, Wichita, Kansas, Oklahoma City, and Tulsa, Oklahoma.

Secretary of Commerce Hoover, who announced the routes after conferring with Mr. Coolidge, believed that commercial companies will be operating continuous trips over the transcontinental route in less than six months.

This route will need little attention to it at the commercial aviation as the post office department has kept it in good shape for their own planes, Hoover said.

Construction of an airway must be proper landing field must be selected, landing lights must be provided, intermediate transportation to and from commercial cities be arranged, and waterhouses be built.

All this work will be forward to Mr. Hoover and the next great division of aviation of the Commerce department is prepared to carry on the duties without interruption, he declared.

ACCIDENTAL DEATHS.

The United States leads the world in wealth, prosperity and the standard of comfort which the masses of its people enjoy, but at the same time it is pre-eminent in both crime and accidental death from a variety of causes. We have not only a record of 12,000 homicides a year but of 85,000 deaths annually of men, women and children, and some 10,000 injured, from accidents due to carelessness or ignorance. Such fatalities are said to occur in this country at the rate of ten every hour, and to cause an annual economic loss of five billions—a sum nearly twice as large as the cost of government. The National Safety Council therefore concludes that "America is the most reckless nation in the world," after pointing out that its rate of deaths from accident is more than twice that of England and Wales and 50 per cent greater than that of Canada.

This lamentable supremacy is attributed largely to the fact that four-fifths of the automobiles in the world are operated in this country, although the American death rate from all other accidental causes, with the one exception of drowning, is also proportionately higher. Happily the situation is not as hopeless as it seems. Organized effort to reduce the number of accidents has already accomplished something and may do more. In spite of the increasing operation of automobiles, the death rate from accident during recent years has been reduced ten per cent below what it was during 1900-1910, marked improvement in other classifications having a little more than balanced the great increase in automobile accidents.

BLOCS AND FACTIONS.

While economists are agreed that in wealth and prosperity the United States leads all nations, they differ as to basic elements entering into our national progress. Some say the United States profited by the manufacture and sale of war material and by the increase induced by the war in price of our food and other products. Others contend that our prosperity is due to vast natural resources, developed because of the war, and to lack of production abroad during the war. Still others say, and more logically, that it is because of modern methods and machinery united with natural resources, thrift and industrial diligence.

But there is another basic reason, apparently overlooked—the homogeneity of public opinion in the United States, as contrasted with the heterogeneity of Europe. In the United States we have two great political parties, one is a check on the other. If the party in power fails to meet the public needs, it requires no great amount of change in the public mind to transfer power to its opponent.

European nations are divided into many political factions, no one faction strong enough to have control. To form a majority, two or more factions must coalesce or combine, resulting in control by coalition which in turn is achieved through compromise of principles or policies, effecting a combination of the weak and vulnerable. The condition of France today, is due as much to factions and factional disharmony in the legislative branch of the government as to the effects of war. Due to the inherent weakness of factional control, no sooner does a coalition cabinet or government undertake legislative action than it topples and falls.

No nation and no people can grow and prosper under such conditions. If there is a lesson for the people of the United States in the financial and industrial chaos of European countries, it is that we must avoid them and continue to chart our course through the medium of two evenly balanced parties. This may not promote the democratic process, but it will promote national progress and prosperity.

KIDNAPING THE INTERA.

Good roads contributions put pep in to the drive for better highways, but unless highway contributions do great harm by taking claims that do violence to common sense. In this case of statistical vagaries are the drivetions made by an editorial appearing in a Portland, Oregon, paper, in which the editor says that, on the basis of $34.50 for a 37" x 4" cord tire, or $138.00 for four tires, the tire charge for a car is $3.40 per 1,000 miles on a concrete road and $23.20 on a macadam road, the editor's analysis being based in turn, upon test results obtained at a college in the State of Washington.

If the tire wear on concrete roads is figured at only $3.40 per 1,000 miles, one set of tires would therefore give a service of 40,600 miles. Not even the velvet smoothness of a sheet asphalt surface could be expected to yield such results. The editor's further assumption that the cost of tire wear on a macadam road is $23.20 per 1,000 miles, is another way of saying that the motorist who uses a macadam road must have seven sets of tires, to give him the same service as one set would give him on a concrete road.

Unquestionably, the smoother the pavement, the freer it is from bad grades and curves, and the cleaner the surface is kept, the greater the life of tires, but there are limits within which statistics should be coordinated with practical service results.

A little more inclination to face the facts as they are, would result in a more widespread policy of salvaging our old pavements and macadam roads by using their full foundation value and putting on new wearing surfaces, instead of ripping up old, well compacted material, and spending $40,000 to $50,000 a mile, with heavy annual interest charges, for any kind of new pavements which someone tries to kid us into believing will cause 7 or 17 times less tire wear.

IS HARD WATER HARMFUL?

You have likely heard from time to time that hard water is bad for the system. Hard water, as you know, is water containing lime salts.

Now as most of us have to drink this kind of water, it is worth while to know whether hard water really is harmful.

A research man set out some time ago to find out "the effect of hard water on the growth, appearance, and general well-being."

He studied the effect of hard water as compared with the distilled water on white mice, white rats, young rabbits, dogs, calves and chicks.

This certainly gave a variety of animals, and offset the criticism, that is sometimes made that white mice, for instance, react differently to certain substances than does a human being. But when the same results are secured on six different kinds of animals, then it can be considered as reasonably proven.

And what were the results? This scientist makes this complete statement: "In no instance did animals on distilled water develop better than those on hard water, but the reverse was actually true under several conditions. Another condition that is blamed on hard water is the formation of stones in the kidneys. Experiments upon the same varieties of animals were carefully carried out.

Here too we have the scientist's actual statement: "No evidence has been found proving hard water to be a cause of the formation of stones in the kidney."

Now water is really a food entering into the composition of every food, as well as the tissues of the body. It forms the largest part of all the fluids in the body, moistens the mucous surfaces of the body, prevents friction, enables the blood to be in a fluid state to be carried all over the body, promotes tissue change, removes wastes, distributes body heat, regulates body temperature and so forth.

Remember the uses of water to the system, and remembering also that hard water is not harmful, the extra glass or two of water between meals is a good habit.

Most of us do not drink enough water.

New Netherland (Under the Rule of Stuyvesant Who Died About August 13, 1672.

When the war broke out between Holland and England in 1651, the ability as an executive officer of Peter Stuyvesant, Director-General of New Netherland, was brought into play. New Amsterdam had been put in a state of defense for it was at first supposed that the war would involve the English and Dutch colonies.

Stuyvesant had appointed the burgomasters, the schepens and fiscal officers. He now attempted to adjust affairs with New England but in vain. He did, however, conduct a successful expedition against the Swedes on the Delaware River.

Indian outbreaks excited the colony for several years. A serious uprising near New Amsterdam was followed by the terrible massacres at Pavonia, Hoboken and Staten Island. In three days one hundred Dutch colonists were killed, one hundred and fifty were taken prisoners, and a financial loss of 200,000 guilders, ($80,000) was sustained. Devastations at Esopus and the destruction of Wiltwyck were not the least disturbing problems encountered in dealing with the Indians.

In the meantime the villages of Jamaica and New Haerlem had been settled, a municipal court had been established at Esopus, known as Wiltwyck, Arendt Van Cuyler, long loved and trusted by the Indians as "Corlear," had purchased the great flats at Schenectady and the colony was spreading forth like a blossoming plant.

The aggressions of the "malignant English" had been a source of annoyance to the Dutch for years. Cromwell at one time threatened to seize New Netherland. In 1657 the Commissioners of the United New England Colonies conceded Orster Bay and Huntington to the jurisdiction of New Haven.

In 1662 Connecticut laid claim to Westchester in spite of the provisional treaty. Charles II. had granted to the younger Winthrop, Massachusetts Bay, including Connecticut, and to his brother James, Duke of York, New Netherland. The fact that a great part of this territory was not his to give, but belonged to the Dutch, was not included in the consideration in the least.

About this time Captain John Scott appeared. He had been a disturber of the peace for several years. He produced orders for the stringent enforcement of the British navigation laws in the colonies, claiming that Long Island belonged to the Duke of York and proceeded to place the English Long Island towns under one organization, of which he was elected "president." With an armed party he sought to force Dutch settlements to join the league, but failed. Here he encountered the strong arm and determined will of Stuyvesant.

The contest was acrimoniously conducted, protracted, and only ended by the appearance, August 25, 1664, of the English fleet under Colonel Richard Nicolls, who had been ordered by his royal master, to take possession of the province, reduce the Dutch to entire obedience, and "to put them out of capacity of doing such mischief."

It was repugnant and mortifying to Stuyvesant's courage to surrender his charge without firing a shot, and like a soldier of high spirit, he prepared to make determined resistance, in spite of the appeals of the city authorities and the clergy. "I would much rather be carried out dead," he exclaimed.

Stuyvesant appealed in vain for help and for several days cleverly delayed the inevitable. He only yielded when Nicolls entered the harbor with his ships and an overwhelming force, and he regretfully signed the articles of capitulation that had been agreed to by the magistrates.

Thus New Amsterdam ceased to exist on the morning of September 8, 1664, and New York arose in its memory.

Stuyvesant was recalled to Holland, where he arrived in October, 1665, and made his report to the Dutch West India Company.

In 1663 the grand old Director-General returned to New York, settled on the farm, or bower, which he had previously purchased, and which occupied that part of the present city which lies between Third, Fourth, Fifth, Sixth and Seventh streets. His house was destroyed by fire in 1777.

With all his faults, Peter Stuyvesant was a grand man of the time in which he lived. Obsolete to every belief of duty and conscience, and jealous in his patriotic devotion to the interests of his people and country.

He stood with contempt the treachery of one of the most dependable of the British monarchs toward his unsuspecting ally, and felt a degradation to yield to the demands of the royal ruler, who was incapable of exercising any truly generous impulse.

While the exact date of his death is not known, it is believed that it occurred on his farm just prior to the middle of August 1672, aged 55 years. He was buried at his chapel in "The Bower," where a tablet on the wall of the main room of the "Bower and Bower" monument.

All Cools Look Alike

As the hungry ones, but what a sad disappointment when the "hunger" goes quite suddenly and the table looks anything but satisfying to a usual appetite. When in doubt as to what to do, use The Freeman's "Help Wanted" Can-a-Wood Department.

The witherbone is a bone in the front of a foot. It is so called from the old custom of using it as a withering bone. Two persons pull it apart and the one getting the longer part gets the whip. Whittemore Dies
In Baltimore JailMan Who Murdered Maryland Prison Guard Drowned Until the Very Last —Laughs at Death Just as He Had Laughed at Life.Baltimore, Md., Aug. 13.—He died
as he lived—defiant, bold, carefree, full of scorn and contempt for the law.As he had laughed at life, he laughed at death.As he stood in the death chamber of Maryland penitentiary, his body wrapped in a gray shroud, his neck in a rope, there came from the lips of Richard Reese Whittemore no word of regret, no sign of repentance, no indication of fear.He was smiling, mocking the law
he had so often defied."I wish to say good-bye, that's the best I could wish anybody."That was all he said and those words he uttered in a manner that stunned the crowd of 150 or more spectators who gathered at the death in that gloomy chamber.The hubbub and excitement that filled the chamber died as the "Candy Kid" was led into the room from his cell. There was a stir to look at him, to see if he would turn "yellow" at the end, and then, silence.The silence for a moment was awful. It made one's tongue stick to the roof of the mouth. It made one creep stealthily on tiptoe to the right to catch a better view. The crowd longed for the agony of silence to break. Nothing did, but the guards going about the business of death—these grim individuals delegated by man-made law to balance the scales of justice against a murderer.They led him into the death chamber at 12:05 a. m. on this Friday morning, the 13th. The law took no chance. He was bound at wrist and chest, and the gray shroud covered him. He came out upon the balcony unassisted. Straight to the dangling rope and trap he walked.It was solemn, grim business, yet, he smiled. That smile will never leave the memory of those who saw it. It relieved a tense, almost hysterical atmosphere.Below, the crowd surged forward.
Cigars and cigarettes were dashed to the floor. These men below were witnesses, demanded by the law, newspapermen and prison officials.
The crowd was intensely curious.
It was almost mad with its curiosity. There were but few moist eyes.A guard threw himself in front of the "Candy Kid." He was shielded from the gaze below."Is there anything you wish to say?" the guard inquired in a business-like manner.Whittemore arose to his tracks for a moment. Either he was meditating a reply, or he had not expected the question—this favor allowed by the law at the gallows.

The crowd was breathless.

"I wish to say good-bye. That's the best I could wish anybody."Even the guard was amazed. Was Whittemore glad to leave this world of man-made laws, with which he toyed recklessly, or did he wish to mock those below? No one will know. The guard, his face red, brilliant red above his blue uniform,
put the question again.Whittemore had no more to say.
He was ready for the trap.The hood went over his head, thus closing from view forever that smile.
Here the silence became painful.
The hooded figure stood motionless.Then the guards returned quickly to the business at hand—death.The hanging was neatly done, as hangings go. Whittemore's body dropped cleanly through the trap.
The noise of the chains! The body swinging freely in midair! The body tightened and was still.Whittemore had paid for the murder of Robert H. Holtzman, guard in the prison in whose white-washed death chamber his body now was hanging.The trap had been sprung at 12:08. All before had transpired in two minutes! It seemed ages to those below.BROOK LEGIONNAIRES WANT PERSHING FOR COMMANDERA resolution was adopted at the annual Bronx county convention of the American Legion on Tuesday night, August 10, strenuously endorsing the candidacy of General John J. Pershing for national commander of the American Legion in 1927. This resolution was introduced by Albert L.
Ward, national committeeman, Department of New York, and is worded as follows:Whereas: It is undoubtedly the desire of all members of The American Legion, especially in the coming year of 1927 when we will hold our annual convention in Paris, to have as our commander a leader of national and even international note, a leader not merely of one state or section of our country, but truly a representative of all America, a leader of proven capacity to serve and ability to handle the manifold duties of the office, andWhereas: We are providentially favored by having, in the person of the commanding general of the A. E. F., the one outstanding member who not only meets all the requirements for Legion leadership but who also possesses a universal appeal to the entire body of World War veterans;
therefore: It is resolved: That the American Legion of Bronx county in convention assembled do enthusiastically
call upon General John J. Pershing to accept and lead the World War veterans as national commander of the American Legion for the year 1927.The final decision between and prize was with a hard-fought and long and performance—

Telephone GhostLinemen Tell of Bizarre Tricks Performed by Freaks in the Way of Line Trouble.The telephone ghost, the stalking specter of trouble which haunts a line at a certain hour and then disappears, is a worthy successor to the "telephone bug," according to the Telephone Review.From up-state come several stories of telephone line "ghosts" and "freaks" told by old-timers among the linemen. There was the story of the line that went out of order promptly each day at 5:25 p. m.

A "Trained Line."

After the first few days' reports of out of order at 5:25 p. m. and O. K.
on test the next morning, the trouble mentors began to watch it, and lo, at the appointed hour the "short" appeared without fail. The difficulty was finally located along the P. R. and N. E. Railroad, where on a very heavy lead the wires came near crossed head guys. The oxide on wires prevented contact until a train passed and the heat from the locomotive caused expansion of the wires and subsequent lowering to make a direct contact with the guys. The lower temperature at night cleared the trouble temporarily, until, as during the day caused a repetition of the trouble when the "5:25" came thundering down the track.Then there was the line which went out of commission on Monday morning, only to clear again in a few hours. It was one of many in the days when open wire construction was in vogue. To a housekeeping mind the time would suggest but one thing—"the week's wash." And sure enough, when the garments were hung on the line near the fireplace, they caused the trouble, a fact which provided a pretty puzzle for the searcher who delayed covering the trouble.

No Ground.

Way back in the days of universal grounded service, it was not unusual to have reports of lines crossed which were not anywhere near each other except at the central office.While the common ground at the office was good, in one case it was impossible to get a good ground connection in a section of the city above a river and an industrial canal. For some reason never determined, this section was insulated from the rest of terra firma, in a limited area
above the river and canal.CATSKILL MOUNTAIN BIBLE CONFERENCE STARTS SUNDAYThe first annual Catskill Mountain Bible conference will open at Margaretville on Sunday, August 15. The conference will be under the direction

tion.There are a number of summer boarders in West Park at present.State Fruit Crop Good This YearHigh Quality Features This Year's Fruit Crop—Most Kinds Plentiful
—Big Grape Crop Forecast.All the major fruit crops in New York are developing excellent quality and good sized crops, according to the state-federal crop report for August issued from the New York State Department of Farms and Markets.Apples to date have been unusually free from disease and insect injury, though recent cloudy weather has made possible the beginning of some scab infection, particularly in poorly sprayed orchards. The summer and fall apples are especially abundant. Commercial apple growers reporting August 1 gave 71 as the per cent of a normal crop now in prospect, with Dutchess 77 per cent,
Wealthy 74, McIntosh 44, Baldwin
65, Greening 76, and Northern Spy only 33 per cent of normal.The forecast of production is for 34,929,000 bushels, of which 6,403,
000 barrels are rated as commercial.
Should present indications hold to the end of the season, the commercial crop can be roughly divided as follows: Summer apples, 768,000 barrels compared with 625,000 barrels last year; fall and early winter varieties, 1,793,000 barrels compared with 1,500,000 barrels last year, and strictly winter varieties, 3,842,000 barrels compared with 4,125,000 barrels of commercial winter apples
last year.

Big Crops in Other States.

Nearly all important apple states have larger crops than last year.
This is particularly true of Virginia and Washington. The Virginia crop is over twice as large as last year and is half as large as that of New York this year. The state of Washington, with 35,323,000 bushels, has 20 per cent more than last year. Of these, 10,911,000 barrels are commercial.The United States total of 218, 920,000 bushels as now forecast compares with 171,706,000 bushels last year and the 5-year average of 169,500,000 bushels, while the commercial crop for the same period is 39,559,000 barrels, 33,044,000 barrels and 30,109,000 barrels respectively.

Pears Below Average.

Pears, while of good quality are slightly below average in quantity in New York, with a forecast of 2,059,000 bushels compared with 3, 945,000 bushels last year and the 5-year average of 2,199,000 bushels. Seckels are quite light with Bartlett's next, while Kieffers appear to be the best of the principal varieties.The United States pear crop of 25,074,000 bushels compares with 19,320,000 bushels last year and the average of 17,707,000 bushels, the past 5 years, the largest increases being in the Pacific Coast States.

Abundant Peach Crop.

Peaches throughout the country are more abundant than last year with the largest crops in the states that ship early. The New York crop, principally Elbertas, is the latest to enter the market, which should be fairly clear with the possible exception of fruit from New Jersey, Pennsylvania and Michigan, all of which have better crops than last year.The crops this year and last year bushels, are as follows: New York, 2,412,000 and 1,920,000; New Jersey, 2,808,000 and 1,740,000; Pennsylvania, 2,214,000 and 600,000;
Michigan, 1,443,000 and 592,000;
United States, 63,619,000 and 46, 565,000.

Good Grape Outlook.

The grape crop is also generally good with the crop in New York forecast at 96,516 tons compared with 51,840 tons last year and 80, 000 tons in 1924. The combined
New York, Pennsylvania and Ohio crop totals 146,664 tons compared with 76,770 tons in 1925 and 120, 150 tons in 1924.The California crop is larger than last year, with 1,165,940 tons compared with 1,816,000 tons a year ago. Considerably more than half the grapes grown in California are of the type used for raisins, and a relatively small proportion of this type, varying from year to year with the condition of the markets, are shipped fresh. This year's wine grape crop in California is forecast at 426,000 tons compared with 325,
000 tons last year; table grapes
418,000 tons compared with 324,000 tons and raisin grapes 1,321,000 tons compared with 1,088,000 tons.The total United States grape crop of 2,443,000 tons compares with 1,967,000 tons last year.

Coal Will Not Give Up to Oil

Not the slightest chance of being replaced, declares Hodges—Idle to Speculate on Other Way to Develop Steam Power.

London, Aug. 13.—King Coal has many years of life before him and there is not the slightest chance of him abdicating in favor of King Oil, according to Frank Hodges, secretary of the International Miners' Federation, and one of England's most prominent labor leaders.

"Pointing out that the world's reserves of coal are known to exceed those of oil, Hodges asserts that coal has only had a temporary setback in its industrial development and will shortly regain its ascendancy over oil.

"In this country and in most industrial countries," said Hodges in an interview, "coal-firing will always provide the bulk of energy developed until such times as the coal reserves are economically exhausted.

To Maintain Supremacy.

"The increasing use of the pulverized system of coal-firing limits the expansion of the use of oil for steam-raising, and coal will thus maintain its supremacy. The great advantage of the system is that low grade fuels become easily available for the production of power.

"Huge quantities of these fuels, which are inseparably produced with better grade coals, and which represent a substantial item of the cost of production, will soon find a profitable market. Its increasing use will be an enormous economic help to the coal industry. I am not surprised, therefore, that it is being reported from the United States that oil-firing for steam-raising is being scrapped and pulverized coal-firing is being installed in its place.

"It is also well known that coal need not fear oil even on its own special territory, namely, for use in internal combustion engines and as a lubricant. There is no doubt whatever that what is known as the low temperature processes of carbonization or pre-treatment of coal for the recovery of its volatile constituents are now established as a commercial possibility. We now know that by these processes coal yields a large quantity of fuel-oil and motor spirit, as well as a smokeless semi-coke for power production and domestic fuel.

Pulverized Fuel.

"For power production, particularly in the capital stations, overshadowed in the government's scheme of reorganization, there is no greater economic possibility than a combination of low-temperature carbonization and pulverized fuel-firing. Such a combination is now long past the experimental stage, and indeed a commercial plant having a capacity of 200 tons of coal per day is in the Lakeland in the United States at the Lakeland Station of the Milwaukee Electric Railway and Light Company as an adjunct of pulverized fuel-firing."

ROSENDALE.

Rosendale, Aug. 13.—The ladies of the Baptist Church will hold their annual bazaar on the church lawn, Tuesday afternoon and evening, August 17. The ladies have an assortment of fancy and useful articles suitable for gifts for friends for Christmas. Homemade cake and ice cream also on sale.

Miss Sarah Ackerman is spending her vacation with her mother in this village.

Mrs. Mary Borntager and son, Howard, of Amsterdam visited friends in this place a few days the past week.

Mrs. Elizabeth Hasbrouck visited her nephew at Newburgh the past week.

Miss Helen Dupuy of Yonkers is a guest of Miss Evelyn Krom of this village.

Mr. and Mrs. George Eggleston of Newburgh spent Sunday with Mr. and Mrs. John Christians. Mrs. Eggleston's grandparents.

Mr. and Mrs. Dupuy Davis of Kingston, called on old friends in this place on Sunday.

Mrs. Harry Lewis and children of Poughkeepsie are guests of relatives in this village.

Mrs. Frances Arnoise of Ellenville spent a few days with friends in this place the past week.

Mrs. Daniel Sullivan, who has been quite ill with pleurisy at the home of her father, Levi Lewis, is slowly improving.

Patrick McKee, one of Rosendale's oldest residents, is seriously ill at his home in this village with slight hopes for his recovery.

Joseph Shappach of Mount Vernon is spending his vacation with Mr. and Mrs. John Oilly of this village.

Mr. and Mrs. George Mattman are enjoying an automobile trip through Canada.

The bazaar held on the Rifton church lawn on Tuesday afternoon was well attended by the summer guests who are stopping here and also the people of the village. The ladies who had charge of this affair are very grateful to all who helped make it a financial success.

Mr. and Mrs. John Moore, John Oilly and Mrs. Harry Ten Hagas and Mrs. Charles Ten Hagas went on a honeymoon trip one day the past week and returned home with well filled purses.

Mrs. John Overbrook and Charles of Kingston came out on Tuesday afternoon and attended the bazaar at the Reformed Church.

Harry Weep had the unfortunate to fall on Thursday last and sprain his wrist. He is doing as well as can be expected at this writing.

Jack Russell, who spent the past three weeks with his grandfather, returned to his home in the city on Sunday.

Gertrude's Fame, Famine to Mother

Mrs. Ederle hasn't had a square meal since the great news came that Gertrude swam the channel. She'll get the broiler out of the oven, have the creamed carrots and peas smoking hot, and the rich blueberries all ready to toss in between the crisp picnics and then comes along some one else to congratulate Ma on her water-nymph daughter.

Diet, by the way, means nothing in the young life of any youngster whose mother swings as wicked a skillet as Mrs. Ederle.

"Gertrude owe anything to careful diet? Well, I guess not," said Ma Ederle, indignantly, as if someone had reflected seriously upon her "table."

"We all eat anything we like to eat. Gertrude wouldn't think of denying herself anything. My, how that girl can eat! I wish she was here right this minute to help us clean up all the good things we're going to have for lunch—Irma and me," referring to a younger daughter.

But broilers grew cold, carrots and peas lost their youth and picnics fell in despair while Ma was pulled out again by Highlands, N. J., neighbors to pose for movies and "stills" and have her strong hand shaken and her broad shoulder patted.

"I guess I'll starve today, after all."

"I'll tell you about Gertrude," she said when the excitement subsided for a minute or two.

"It's nothing in the world but her own will power that took her across the Channel. When that girl makes up her mind there's nothing can stop her. I knew she'd do it sometime—I felt after she got over there it would be now."

"When she first swam? Oh, that's hard to say. We've always spent our summers here at the Highlands, in this little cottage. And we'd jump off right into fairly deep water, seven feet at the most shallow part. She learned early. No, we didn't throw our kids in and let them swim. I taught them."

"I was her first teacher—and her own will power carried her to championship and then across the Channel."

"Will power can do anything. I believe. I never tried to train her to strong will but I guess I mentioned my ideas about it once in a while."

"I wouldn't need to. Will is something Gertrude's got just like she's got her strength."

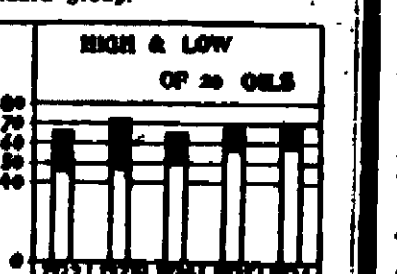

"Do you suppose you'd mind if Irma and I had our dinner now? I'm really hungry. The excitement last night kept me awake and I need something now."

"Chicken fricassée is Gertrude's favorite dish. I make it no special way—just the way everyone does. But I'll tell you something—my girl is a sweet kid. Know why? Because ice cream is her middle name. She won't eat any other kind of sweets. Goodbye!"

And Ma Ederle, her hunger for Gertrude's success satisfied, went in the cottage to still another hunger less glorious and more necessary.

Standard and Independent Oil Stocks.

Babson Park, Mass., Aug. 13.—(Special)—Recent increases in the dividend rates of Standard Oil stocks has been leading investors to look back and note how steadily has been the long time upward trend of the group of Standard stocks, notwithstanding considerable fluctuations. These companies have been characterized by strong management and excellent financial condition. But to a large extent it would be unfair not to admit that the same is true, when looking over oil stocks, of the better independent companies such as Gulf, Tide Water Associated, Phillips and Texas. For they have also shown generally a strong basic appreciation in price and have acted in about the same manner as the Standard group.

Taking, however, 20 representative oil stocks over the past five years, we find that this year to date has seen the highest price since 1923, and also the least spread between high and low prices for any of the past five years to date.

Pests on Windshield

Auto owners: Keep your windshield clean. By their teeth you shall know them. There's many a slip on a motor trip. An auto of glass is a great hazard. A sudden slip of foot with a little oil on the windshield can mean a crash. Auto with glass windows should get brush down. See that your brush is clean, but you be broken. Take care of the glass and the bugs will take care of the driver.—Broom Tidings.

Rickard Made a Poor Statement

Before Boxing Commission Thursday When He Admitted That He Was Representing Dempsey — License Commission Could Now Refuse to License Bout as Rules Forbid a Promoter to Represent a Boxer.

New York, Aug. 13.—Seemingly unaware of the fact that he had left a loophole through which the Dempsey-Tunney bout may be eased out of New York and, perhaps, existence, Tex Rickard stated today that he could promote the enterprise on a minimum of three weeks but admitted that he would lose only $40,000 if the noble gladiators failed to raise a glove.

This last was more than a possibility in this state today as result of Rickard's unguarded statement before the commission yesterday.

Asked whether he was authorized to represent Dempsey at the meeting, Rickard replied that he was. He might have said worse. He could, in fact, have told the commission that Dempsey had just jumped out the window.

A cardinal rule of the commission reads to the effect that no promoter may represent or act in the interests of a boxer. Pressed for an answer, Rickard probably would break down and confess that he is a promoter.

Dempsey is a boxer or, at least, will so remain up to and including September 16.

Rickard's admission, innocent enough though it may have been, constituted a flagrant violation of the code and the license commission can make the most of it, if it wishes to be technical.

Anyone who thinks those boys are not technicians of the most virulent kind would do well to refer to the record of the last few days, whereby Dempsey was denied a license because he hadn't formally indicated his desire to fight the man for whom he wished the license to fight. If the license commission wants an "out" and its recent actions certainly indicate nothing less—it has it here.

However, Rickard seemed blithely ignorant of the possible harm he had done. He discouraged in a general way about the fight, dropping a casual pearl of information here and another there.

"First of all, I want to say that this is not a battle between the men running boxing and myself," he declared. "It is a fight within the ranks. Mr. Brower requested me to bring the match back from Chicago, and I did. He said it was wanted here but I can't say that I have obtained cooperation from all of the boxing governors."

"Still, I have every confidence that the fight will go on and have my tickets ready to sell. If the worst comes to the worst, I can promote the fight with three weeks leeway, so efficient is my organization."

"If the match is dropped altogether, and I know it won't be, I stand to lose about $40,000 in advertising, printing and general expenses. The money I advanced to the fighters as a guarantee will be kicked back to me. We always make an arrangement of that kind."

"With all this excitement, I have given up any idea of a $40 ring-side seat. My best tickets are being printed at the $25 rate. What's that? Certainly I expect to use them. You can bet your hard-earned dough that this fight is going through."

East-West Tennis Play Starts Today

Richard Will Meet Chandler in Feature Match—Tilden and Johnston Will Play Saturday.

New York, Aug. 13.—Heavy turf was in prospect for the first day of the annual East-West tennis matches this afternoon, an overnight cloudburst having inundated the stadium. Today's program lacked the thrills that were in prospect for tomorrow when William T. Tilden and William Johnston, the greatest stars of the game, were to meet in singles for the first time since their memorable final round match in the national championships last year.

Vincent Richards, playing the best tennis of his career, was to represent the east in the feature match this afternoon, meeting Edward "Doc" Chandler, of California, the intercollegiate champion.

In the remaining singles match, A. R. Chapin, Jr., east, was to face Lionel Ogden, west.

The doubles will bring together Tilden and Chapin against Cranston Holman and Ogden.

JACK DEMPSEY BEGINS HIS INTENSIVE TRAINING

White Sulphur Springs, N. Y., Aug. 12.—Far removed from the turmoil which surrounded him in New York, Jack Dempsey prepared for his first day in camp this morning with a run over the surrounding roads. He probably will box four or five rounds this afternoon and go through the usual ritual of bag punching, shadow boxing and work with the sand bag. He seemed to be in excellent condition although slightly nervous.

This was not surprising in view of the trouble that beset him in New York to the point that he almost became and because of this challenge he had at him by Fatty Sullivan. The champion dismissed the latter with a word.

"I'm used to being berated," was all he would say.

Dempsey has no intention of returning to New York on Monday for the next meeting of the Brown commission, which commenced by that body of Tex Rickard.

Dissension in Pittsburgh Club

Three Pirate Players Present Petition to Manager McKeechle Asking That Fred Clarke, Assistant Manager and Vice President, be Kept Off Bench.

Pittsburgh, Aug. 13.—Confronted with a situation unique in the history of the Pittsburgh baseball club, Manager Bill McKeechle was expected to take action today to restore harmony broken on the road trip just completed, when three veteran players asked that Fred Clarke, assistant manager and vice president, be kept off the players' bench.

Max Carey, captain; "Babe" Adams, veteran pitcher, and Carson Higbee, utility outfielder, who presented McKeechle with a petition for Clarke's removal from the playing field, refused to comment, but McKeechle requested that Clarke again don a uniform.

Clarke's reply was that he would remain off the field until proper disciplinary action had been taken against the "insurgents" by McKeechle. McKeechle described the situation as "one of the most distressing in my baseball career."

The players' reason for desiring Clarke's absence from the bench remained a secret. None were willing to discuss it.

News from the Swimming Camps

Jabon Wolfe, former Ederie Trainer, John Rankin of Volunteer Trainers of Lillian Cannon—Miss Barrett Will Try Again Before End of August.

Gris Nez, France, Aug. 13.—Jabon Wolfe, who trained Gertrude Ederie for her first and unsuccessful attempt to swim the English Channel, today joined the ranks of volunteer trainers of Lillian Cannon, Baltimore girl, who expects to make her effort within the next few days.

Wolfe, explaining his action, said: "It is just a sporting proposition, simply an attempt to help Miss Cannon break Ederie's record."

Recently, however, it was reported that Wolfe was "out for revenge" upon Gertrude because of her having defeated last year that Wolfe was to blame for her failure because he forced her to quit against her will.

Dover, Aug. 13.—Clara Belle Barrett, New Rochelle school teacher, announced definitely today that she would make her second attempt to swim the English Channel before the end of August. Miss Barrett was defeated in her first effort after swimming more than 22 hours.

Two other American aspirants for the distinction of swimming the Channel are ready to start as soon as weather conditions permit. They are—Mrs. Clementia Carson, of New York and Louis Timmon of Boston. Both have had several long practice swims and declare they are in perfect condition. Storms and strong westerly winds, now prevailing in the Channel, are holding them up.

Tagging Major League Bases

The faltering Yankees lost to Washington 5 to 2, getting only three hits off George Murray, a Yankee cast-off. The Yanks now have lost four straight and the Senators have won four straight, and the Huguen lead Cleveland by only eight games.

The Indians had a walkaway. Lefty Miller whitewashing the White Sox 6 to 0. This Speaker got three doubles.

Connie Mack's hopefuls closed in on the Indians by smacking the Red Sox twice, 5 to 1, and 5 to 0, Ehmske and Hommel each turning in a five-hit performance. Simmons got five hits.

Detroit lost to the Browns, 7 to 2, and flopped back into the second division.

The Reds jumped right back into the pennant swim by thrashing the Phillies 9 to 2. Drensen led the attack with four hits, including a homer.

Dundee Even Choke.
New York, Aug. 13.—Alleged rejuvenation on the part of Johnny Dundee has led to placing the veteran Italian as an equal choice with Phil McGraw, Detroit, for their twelve-round bout at the Coney Island Stadium tonight. Dundee has been boxing since 1911.

Morgan Will Fight Dundee.
San Francisco, Aug. 13.—Ted Morgan, junior lightweight champion, and Johnny Dundee, veteran New York fighter, will meet in a ten-round bout here on either September 7 or 8. It was announced today.

Grouping of Furniture
Arranging the furniture in a number of definite groupings is the modern trend in decorating a room. A grouping will consist of, for example, a console table with mirror above, a bench on either side and a small rug in front of it. Another grouping will be a desk with a panel hanging back of it and flanked on either side with a chair.

Tortillas in Mexico
Tortillas are large round cakes of popular consumption in Mexico. They are made by cooking corn grains until soft, then crushing them into a paste, generally by working them with a roller or similar instrument on a large stone and shaping them into the desired size and coating on iron or earthen plates.

Maggie Under Ben
Ancient legend has it that the magpie will sit under Noah's ark, because, when all the other birds came into the ark of their own accord, the magpie alone gave trouble, and had to be caught.

Real Sent of Sensibility
The pulse of the people is the real sent of sensibility. It is to be drawn upon largely, and they will then listen to truths which could not enter them through any other organ.—Thomson.

Dundee Prohibited
The Dundee bullet is a well-known or expanding bullet, so named after Dundee around, the place near Calcutta, India, where it was first made. Its use was prohibited in warfare by The Hague conference.

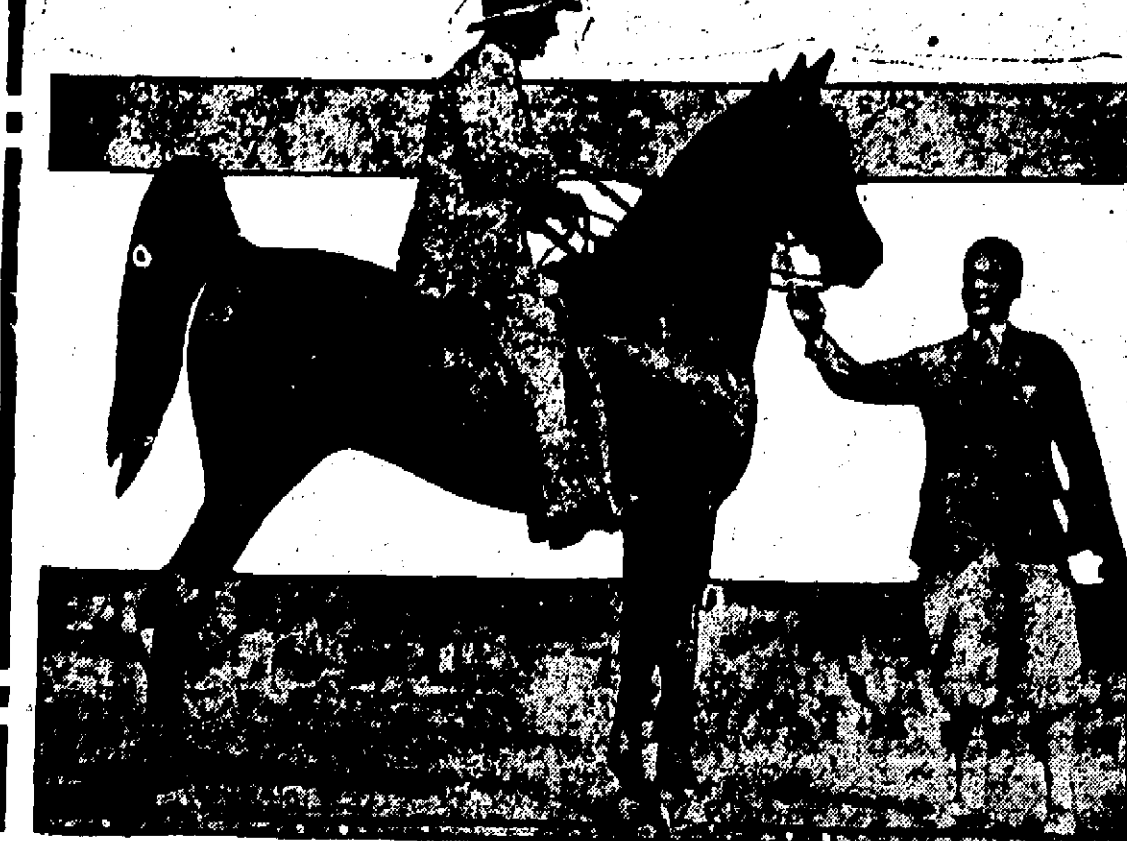

Killifer Is Factor
Last winter Rogers Barnard captured Bill Killifer, who was kicked out of the Chicago Cubs, to act as coach and scout for the St. Louis Cardinals. That move now seems to have been a master stroke, for it took to St. Louis not only an excellent coach but a right-handed pitcher, Vic Koen, who was procured from the Cubs in exchange for Shortstop Cooney.

Stroke That Won Jones
From the story of Bobby Jones' last 18 holes in the British open: "At the eleventh Jones missed an opportunity to level his total, missing a three-foot putt after a faultless three to the edge of the green. He lost another stroke at the thirteenth, but got it back at the next. The fifteenth saw him even with the professional when Watrous' putt overran six feet and he missed the return. The sixteenth was halved and then at the crucial seventeenth Jones found a shallow sandpit just off the fairway, but a spectacular midiron took him to the green 170 yards away.

Schoolboy Is Insured
Fred Ortman, nineteen-year-old hurdler for the Portland Beavers of the Pacific Coast league, has been insured by the club management for $100,000. Young Ortman is a Portland high school boy, and is looked upon as one of baseball's greatest finds. He recently pitched a one-hit game in Los Angeles.

QUEER SITUATION BY TONGUE SLIP
The home manager had a left-hander and right-hander warming up prior to the game. He was undecided as to whom he would start. On the club, up until three or four days prior to the game in question was a promising youngster who had seen considerable service in relief roles. He had been shipped to a club in the American association for more experience.

Champion Bobby Jones Plays Golf for Crippled Children

Bobby Jones, holder of the American and British golf championships, who played an exhibition golf game at Barboursville, Ky., for the benefit of the crippled children of the mountain section of eastern Kentucky, vied as an attraction for the more than 5,000 visitors with Vendetta, world's champion, five-gaited saddle mare. Both are shown in the picture, with Bob Adair, prominent Atlanta business man, owner of Vendetta, in the saddle.

Stroke That Won Jones Title in British Open

From the story of Bobby Jones' last 18 holes in the British open: "At the eleventh Jones missed an opportunity to level his total, missing a three-foot putt after a faultless three to the edge of the green. He lost another stroke at the thirteenth, but got it back at the next. The fifteenth saw him even with the professional when Watrous' putt overran six feet and he missed the return. The sixteenth was halved and then at the crucial seventeenth Jones found a shallow sandpit just off the fairway, but a spectacular midiron took him to the green 170 yards away.

"That stroke won for Bobby—if single strokes can win golf championships. He took a four to Watrous' five. With Jones leading by a stroke the players wedged themselves through crowds entirely encircling the eighteenth fairway. Jones' drive winged straight and far down the middle, while Watrous' tee shot found a bunker and his second another at the left of the green. Five was the best the professional could do, while Jones obtained his par four. Then began the nerve-racking wait for the return of Hagen."

Shakespeare managed to write his immortal dramas with a vocabulary of only 22,000 words, which proves that Shakespeare never broke a $12 brand.

Survey Made by Department of Labor During Month of July Shows That United States is a Fairly Satisfactory Employer

Washington, Aug. 13.—United States is on a fairly satisfactory employment basis, according to an industrial survey made during July by the employment division of the Department of Labor, the survey was made public today.

A slight decrease in operations and employment occurred in some of the major industries during the month, mainly as a result of unusual midsummer slackness.

"which is more evident in July because of that month being generally accepted as one for plant alterations and repair work and inventory taking, which necessarily calls for a releasing of many workers for short time," the report said. July also the vacation month in many industries.

The boot and shoe industry, particularly in the New England States continued operations on partial schedules. There are indications, however, that operating time as employment will increase during the next 30 days.

The textile industry showed little improvement, many of the mills still running part time, with curtailed forces. The iron and steel industry experienced the usual seasonal let down, but the larger mills and plants are maintaining a rather high level of production and employment for this period of the year.

The volume of building under way during July showed a slight decline as compared with June. In spite of this, building activities were great enough in practically every state to absorb the majority of the resident building tradesmen. Municipal improvement work, especially in the larger cities, afforded employment to many laborers.

Road construction reached a big peak and large numbers of skilled and unskilled workers were employed. Many of those released from industrial plants found immediate employment in connection with these outdoor activities.

The farm labor supply and demand in most localities were satisfactory. Season operations began in many canning factories in various sections of the country, absorbing many male and female workers.

Changes in Thought Aids to Progression Most men are like a book. They constantly give expression to the same thoughts. They add no new chapters to their lives. Read them backward or forward, they say the same thing. They wonder why it is that their progress is so slow. It rarely occurs to them that they have allowed themselves to become as books. They have been diligent in their efforts to advance, but it has been along the same old beaten path, the lines of least resistance.

A wise man abhors the idea of becoming a book. He has no vainglorious desire to go on record. He has no wish to be bound by precedent. His resolve is to maintain an unbiased mind in order that he may decide upon each new issue according to the complexities of the occasion.

Many believe it to be a mark of weakness to forsake a long-established opinion. They hold some opinions so long that they eventually come to look upon them as facts. But a fact today often becomes obsolete tomorrow. Absolute truth alone is unchangeable, but no man is ever likely to attain this goal.—J. H. Harrington in Forbes Magazine.

Add One Thing More to Wonders of Radio R. M. sends us the story of a young bride who asked her husband to copy of a radio recipe she wanted, says the Boston Transcript. He did his best but got two stations at once, one of which was broadcasting the morning exercises and the other the recipe. This is what he took down:

"Hands on hips, place one cup of flour on the shoulders, raise knee and depress head and mix thoroughly in out-half capital of milk. Repeat six times. Inable quickly one-half teaspoonful of baking powder, lower the legs and march two hard-boiled eggs in a circle. Exhaust, breathe naturally and sit into a bowl."

"Attention! Lie flat on the floor and roll the white of an egg backward and forward until it comes to a ball. In two minutes remove from the fire and rub smartly with a rough towel. Breathe naturally, dress in warm flannels and serve with fish soup."

Home Paris Preferences Which Seem of Timely Interest, Including Hats and Much Things as Shark Skin, Hosiery
and Shoe Details

The vogue of the felt hat is apparently an endless one. There are more felt hats worn in Paris than anything else, the exception to the rule being such large straw capelines as top chiffon and crepe frocks of the dressier sort. Reboux continues to find new ways to crease and to indent crowns, and all milliners have enlarged their crowns to proportions which enable them to take liberties in the way of omelette folds, Fedoras creases, or indentations of one sort or another. Antelope felts are smarter, perhaps, than plain ones, and there is a satin-finished felt which has a considerable lustre; but, as usual, trimmings are reduced to a mere nothing.
Belting ribbon and tailored sash effects come first to mind in listing trimming features. Unless hats are black, they are inclined to repeat the color of the costumes, the exception to this being bois de rose, and rather neutral frocks which are offset by a brilliant red chapeau.

Shark skin is among the smart touches to be added in the way of handbag or shoes, even belts and hat-bands, while reptile skins of various types continue to be pressed into service in interesting ways. French women are in sympathy with our presented preference for leather purses, but impartial as to their shape, both flat and pouch effects being carried. Effective combinations of leather and kid add interest, not only to handbags but to shoes, although fall tendencies in footwear seem to indicate that black will once again be the choice of the well-shod woman.

Earlier in the season there were rumors of changes in hosiery colorings, and considerable talk of a return to hosiery stockings with sports clothes. These predictions have been justified, for one finds women who are careful of detail preferring either wool or silk hose with sports clothes.
There seems to be a slight tendency to get away from such shades in silk as have a pinkish tinge excepting for evening. The smartest shades are rather more inclined toward a gray-ish cast.

THE ART, WHEN AND WHERE OF FASHIONS.

The Language of Turban.
With the present vogue for turban, fashion turned to a field where an unbelieved variety had been already achieved.

Ever since the oldest days, the turban was considered among the Mohammedan people as a sign of honor and authority, venerated somewhat as was the papal tiara.
Those who made the pilgrimage to Mecca were told to wear green, the color of the prophet although white, with colored stripes and borders, is the rule. The Christian Crusades in Egypt were ordered in 1201 to wear plain blue turbans as a sign of the low status in which they were held.

According to experts in the use of Oriental turbans, there are more than one thousand varieties known.
Some of them are simple white others require as much as twenty-four yards of the material. Religious and political distinctions among the numerous tribes in Africa and Asia are expressed and recognized by the shape and construction of the turban. This head-dress has a long history of use. It was an expression of distinction, temperament, tribe, or view in the eyes of the fash-ionist.

SUMMARY DISHES

The delicatessen stores are a great comfort to busy people who have no time for cooking and can afford to pay the extra price demanded for ready-to-eat food. For the average housewife
such food is not economical to serve, except on occasions. The cost of dishes prepared at home will be found to be much less, as left-overs will make in any appetizing and nourishing dishes.

Ham Loaf.—Take three cupsful of broiled or boiled ham finely minced, one small onion also minced, three sprigs of parsley, one tablespoonful of prepared mustard and two eggs. Put all through a meat grinder, add the eggs, salt and pepper to taste. Pack into a well-greased bread pan and bake in a moderate oven for forty-five minutes. Serve hot or cold. Garnish with chopped egg white and serve with green pepper cups filled with tomato jelly.

Chicken or Ham Croquettes.—Melt four tablespoonfuls of butter, add five tablespoonfuls of flour; when well blended add three quarters of a cupful of milk and cook until thick. Add one cupful of minced chicken or ham, one egg yolk, salt and pepper to season, one teaspoonful of lemon juice and a little celery salt. Form into croquettes when cool. Beat an egg white, add three tablespoonfuls of water, dip the croquettes into the egg, then into crumbs and let stand to become firm. Fry in deep fat.

Cottage Cheese Salad.—Take a pint of cottage cheese, two tablespoonfuls each of chives and green peppers finely cut, season with salt, thick cream and salad dressing, and four cupsful of finely shredded lettuce. Heap the seasoned cheese on the lettuce, arranged in nests.

Eggs Poached in Tomatoes.—Take even-sized small ripe tomatoes, scoop out the centers and save for salads.
Drop an egg into each tomato, place in a hot oven, dot with butter, salt and pepper and bake until the egg is set.
Serve on buttered toast.

Financial and Commercial

New York, Aug. 13.—Professional selling of the industrial stocks was encouraged today by the unexpected advance of the re-discount rate of the New York Reserve Bank to 4 per cent, indicating a tightening of the money market somewhat in advance of the usual period. Combined with the withdrawal of about $100,000,000 from the call loan market for the account of the "country banks" this week, it indicated a possible shortening of speculative funds, though banks today reported more call money offered than could be taken at the current rate.

General motors was freely offered for sale and declined to 19 1/2 for a 7-point loss, but the bulk of trading was around $198 to $200 a share.

Call money was in supply at 4 1/4 per cent.

The industrial stock leaders were subjected to a severe test when the professionals opened up the floodgates of selling in the second hour, directing their hardest blows against General Motors, United States Steel, Baldwin and others of the foremost ground gainers. Most of these stocks were supported by excellent buying demand a point or two below the market, on the strength of which they were able to promptly regain a portion of their lost ground.

Atchafalaya, an outstanding strong spot in the railroad stocks, made a three-point gain and an advance in the price to a new record high above 148. Other high grade railroad shares were inclined to follow this stock, buying of New York Central, Norfolk and Western, etc., increasing as the session advanced.

Developments in Hall-Mills Case

Somerville, N. J., Aug. 13.—Special Prosecutor Alexander Simpson today was shown a news dispatch from California stating that Henry L. Dickman, missing New Jersey state trooper, had admitted accepting money to leave this part of the country after he had conducted a lone investigation of the Hall-Mills double murder nearly four years ago.

"I shall do everything in my power to have Dickman brought here and questioned," Simpson said, after reading the dispatch.

Dickman is now serving a term in the United States disciplinary barracks on Alcatraz Island, San Francisco Bay.

Will Arraign New Prisoners.

Somerville, N. J., Aug. 13.—Following their arrest, charged with the dual Hall-Mills slayings, in the strange crapple tree murder mystery, Henry De La B. Carpenter, wealthy broker, and Willie Stevens will be formally arraigned this afternoon.

The Wall street broker, a cousin of the Rev. Edward W. Hall, murdered clergyman, and her dillwitted brother spent the night in the Somerset county jail. Bail was denied by county Judge Frank L. Cleary, acting as committing magistrate.

The state is expected to reveal its "ace in the hole" at today's hearing. Mrs. Jane Gibson, the "pig woman," who declares she saw Dr. Hall and his chaperone, "soul mate" Mrs. Eleanor R. Mills, shot to death on the old Phillips farm on the outskirts of New Brunswick, will be among the accusers who will confront the two men.

Famous Singer Found on Street

Paula Edwards, Star of a Quarter of a Century Ago, Taken to Bellevue For Observation.

New York, Aug. 13.—Nearly a quarter of a century ago, a new and scintillating star twinkled in the firmament of tinsel musical comedy and opera bouffe.

Some habitués of the theatre and patrons of entertainment served up in musical form will remember "The Princess Beggar." A melodious classic produced by Charles Dillingham, the "hit" tunes of which are even yet played sometimes, somewhere.

Paula Edwards was the star of that particular musical melange. She twinkled in all the brightness of the old-time production of that sort, with its prices and retinues, beggars and maids. She danced and pranced across the stage, sang love songs to a manly prince and took her curtain calls with all the fairy-like grace she possessed.

Early today, when the downpour of rain was at its height, Policeman Belmont saw a dim figure kneeling at the corner of Broadway and Twenty-third street. It was a woman, praying, her face uplifted to the pelting rain.

The woman was Paula Edwards. She said she was fifty-six years of age and had been an actress for thirty years. She had been ordered to go to that corner and pray in a dream, she told police.

Paula Edwards was taken to the Bellevue Hospital for observation.

LOCAL DEATH RECORD.

Recent Deaths and Funerals of Persons in This Vicinity.

Maria Karroson, widow of Andrew Overstreet, died today at her home in Rifton. Funeral services Monday morning at 10 o'clock from the late residence.

The remains of Ida Bishop Houghtaling, who died May 6 last at Springfield, Mass., will be brought to this city Tuesday next and interred at Montrose cemetery at 4 o'clock.

John M. Schaefer died very suddenly Thursday at his home in Cottageville, in the 49th year of his age. Funeral from the late residence Saturday evening at 8 o'clock, daylight saving time. Interment on Sunday at the Lutheran cemetery, Long Island.

Mrs. Fredericka Alward, wife of the late Charles Alward, died Thursday afternoon at the home of her niece, Mrs. Edward Reis, with whom she had long made her home. She was born in Germany, the daughter of the late Christian and Elizabeth Schubert Alward, and 54 years ago came to this city, where she has since resided and endeavored herself to a large circle of friends. She had long been a most faithful and consistent member of the Immanuel Evangelical Lutheran Church. She leaves one sister, Mrs. Charles Dasher, of this city, and two brothers, John Alward of this city and William Alward of Buffalo, N. Y. Funeral from the home of Mrs. Reis, 12 Prince street, Monday afternoon at 2:30 o'clock. Interment in the family plot in Montrose cemetery.

Jonathan J. Dronhead, a highly respected resident of Hurley, died Thursday in this city. Mr. Dronhead was a successful fruit grower at Hurley for the past thirty years and was considered by many the most skillful in that county, having specialized in peaches. He was a member of the State Horticultural Society and of the Poughkeepsie and Ulster County Farm Bureau. He is survived by his wife, two daughters, Mrs. John W. Dronhead of Tanners and Mrs. Arnold W. Miller of Brooklyn; three brothers, Morris of this city and Jacob and Lyman of New York city, and three sisters, Mrs. Emma Tilton of this city, Mrs. Rachel Moran of Poughkeepsie and Mrs. John Markie of Ithaca, N. Y. Funeral from the late residence at Hurley on Sunday afternoon at 2 o'clock, daylight saving time.

Wills Passes Lie to Dempsey

New York, Aug. 13.—Following the example set by his manager, Padgy Mullins, the lie was passed to Jack Dempsey again today, the passer being none other than the champion's dark nemesis, Harry Wills. Wills expressed his opinion of the champion in no uncertain terms.

"I see where Dempsey says he has tried to get me in the ring for five years," Wills observed. "He lies. If he keeps on with this kind of stuff, he won't have to wait until he gets me in the ring."

"I'll go after him on a street corner and neither of us will get a cent for the fight. But I'll get plenty of satisfaction. By the time that fight is finished, either one or the other of us will be stretched out cold. I've got a pretty fair idea that that man won't be Harry Wills."

Youths Cannot Be Extradited

State Department Rules That Crimes for Which Elliot and Thorne Were Indicted in White Plains Are Not Included in Extradition Treaty.

White Plains, N. Y., Aug. 13.—Philip C. Elliot and Richard Thorne, indicted on a charge of assaulting Violet Anderson, actress, and who are being held by the Montreal authorities, cannot be extradited, the State Department at Washington advised District Attorney Arthur Rowland today.

In view of this decision, it was considered probable that the two men would be discharged from the custody of the Canadian courts.

The State Department ruled that the two crimes with which Elliot and Thorne are charged are not included in the extradition treaty between Canada and the United States. The indictment can now be pressed only if Elliot and Thorne re-enter the United States.

Has Right to Title "Father of Want Ad"

In 1872 John Houghton, a fellow of the Royal Society, established a weekly paper for the improvement of his hand and trade, and undertook to educate the merchants of England in the art of advertising. First he established a bureau for supplying servants to masters and masters to servants, carrying on operations through advertising. From this he went into the advertising of schools, houses and lodgings to let and so forth, laying down the idea of what has grown into our present "want ads." He instructed the public class by class, including lawyers, physicians and farmers to use his columns, and built up a large miscellaneous patronage for his paper. The clergy in particular found his columns an excellent medium for securing or disposing of second-hand sermons, for there were no Monday morning papers in those days, with ever-present reporters, and a sermon could be preached around in various parlors until it was worn out.

John Houghton was the first "little schoolmaster" in the art of advertising, and his efforts resulted in great increases in the use of newspapers as a medium in furthering trade. Books continued to lead among the things advertised—particularly novels, which had an immense vogue during the Seventeenth and Eighteenth centuries. After the great fire of London the advertising columns of the paper were extensively used as a means of recruiting scattered families, and advertising was also in favor as a medium for perpetuating hoaxes on the public and of setting forth political opinions.

Daniel Defoe was the cleverest and most persistent advertiser of his day—from 1685 until 1728, when he published the last of a long list of miscellaneous books. Known now chiefly by his "Robinson Crusoe," it has been generally forgotten that Daniel Defoe was an active pamphleteer, writing upon topics that were uppermost in the popular mind and taking advantage of each whim or craze to sell his work.—Frank Presbury in the World's Work.

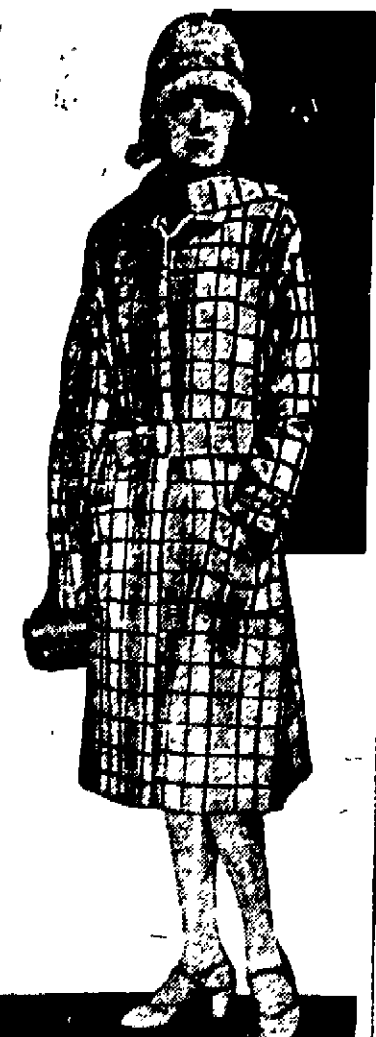

Fined for Shinning Frogs

Frogs, some alive and kicking, others skinned to death, were produced in evidence at the Mixed Court at Shanghai, China, when a Chinese hawker was charged with "killing frogs by skinning them alive contrary to a proclamation issued in the twelfth and thirteenth years of the republic of China." The city prosecutor pointed out that the proclamation prohibiting anyone from killing or catching frogs had been issued because they were good for the farmers. The accused admitted that he had skinned the frogs, but when asked, and told that they were considered quite a delicacy among both the Chinese and foreigners. He was $4.40, the dead frogs were sent to the city hospital for food, and the live frogs were released. During the trial frogs are frequently served at hotels and clubs, including the American club.

City Without Amusements

Angora, Turkey, is believed to be the only capital in the world where there are no theatres, no theatres, no dance halls, cabarets or other places of amusement. Although the population is 25,000, there are no recreations or diversions of any kind. This is not due to any restriction of the Koran or Turkish religion, but to the fact that Angora is just emerging from a medieval village to a modern capital. Although the Turkish dictator, president, has in the Turkish people and foreign residents will have ample amusements. Plans are now under way for the erection of an open house to seat 2,000 persons.

Kasha Cloth Coat of Blue, Gray, Black Plaid

Marion Nixon, "movie" actress, wears this smart kasha cloth coat of blue, gray and black plaid, gray kid gloves and gray leather purse. The small hat is of quilted silk with green ribbon band.

Lace, Frills, Synonym for Extreme Femininity

An increasing vogue for lace moves Lucien Lelong to comment that there is probably no chapter in the history of dress more interesting than that of the evolution of this article of adornment. In the minds of people today the word lace, he points out, in conjunction with the word frills, stands as a synonym for extreme femininity. And yet he would call attention to the fact that until very modern times lace was essentially a masculine perquisite, primarily an adjunct to male dress. Modern womanhood has simply gone out and captured lace; for it is one of man's lost provinces.

Until as late as 100 years ago lace still belonged to man. Strangely enough, it was a soldier, and one of the greatest of all soldiers—Napoleon—who tried to restore lace to its old supremacy in fashionable male attire by himself setting the style for its use in court costumes. But while Napoleon could conquer empires and armies, his assault upon the citadel of femininity conspicuously failed. His lace edict did not get far, and after the disappearance of Napoleon, lace disappeared from men's attire with finality.

Boutonnieres of Ribbon Is in Fashion Picture

Boutonnieres of ribbon are fashionable. There are exquisite roses of ribbon that look surprisingly realistic after the air-brush tinting which is applied when the rose is finished. A bright-colored ribbon boutonniere on the lapel and a matching handkerchief peeking out from under the flap of the envelope bag give a smart touch to the tailored suit. For the dinner or dance frocks the chiffon flower perched on the left shoulder is favored. With a colored dress this flower should match—many good dressers, however, prefer the black flower for contrast. A red or chanel blue flower seems to be the choice to wear with the black gown.

Beaded Gowns Are More Fascinating Than Ever

The beaded gown carries on more fascinating than ever in its summer version. The most fragile materials—chiffon, georgette, marquisette—are patterned over with beads, crystals, colored glass, rhinestones or paillettes with the new glittering silver spangles. White made dazzling with these high lights is very fashionable. Black chiffon, heavily beaded and fringed with jet, is another variant that is always a delight, and some amusing novelties in moonlight effect with iridescent beads on white are shown. These gowns are all especially designed and put together according to a pattern altogether different from the beaded gown that has been with us for a very long time.

Plan to Wear Milady From Plain Little Hat

There is an effort, international in its scope, to awaken women to what is described "hat consciousness." In other words, the powers that be at the front of fashion have decided that the time has come to wear the hat, and to plan little variations into for every occasion, and to revive a greater "elegance" in millinery making.

It will be interesting to watch the reaction of women, for after all, no one fashion authority truthfully said, "It is the women of the smart world who set the fashion and not until they have accepted a mode can it be considered as established."

Given 18 Days To Learn English

Russian Soldier, Who Is Desirous of Joining American Army, May Do So If He Learns English in Eighteen Days.

New York, Aug. 13.—George Zagorsky, 25, Russian soldier of fortune, can speak French, German, Italian, Greek, Turkish and his native language.

But if Zagorsky wants to stay in this country and become an American soldier, he has just eighteen days to learn English.

Zagorsky is here on a six months' visit. Scion of one of the proudest families of the Romanoff regime, he saw his family and his estate wiped out by the Bolsheviks.

After the nightmare of murder and pillage, Zagorsky sought refuge in Constantinople. There he met an American woman who employed him and obtained his temporary entrance to America.

Now Zagorsky wants to be a soldier. The army is willing—if Zagorsky can learn English in eighteen days.

Says Dempsey's Nose Will Be O. K.

Los Angeles, Aug. 13.—Hot or cold weather will have no effect on Jack Dempsey's nose, Dr. W. E. Balingier, the plastic surgeon who corrected the champion's profile, declared today in replying to the statement of Dr. C. Peoria of Vienna that hot weather will wilt Dempsey's reconstructed nose.

"I used no paraffin in correcting Jack's nose," Dr. Balingier stated, "and the Vienna doctor doesn't know what he's talking about. If ivory were used as he suggests, it would be dangerous indeed. A blow might drive the ivory wedge into the brain."

"Fibro-elastic cartilage from behind the ear was used in the Dempsey operation and the champion's nose is now 25 or 30 per cent stronger than it was before."

Labor Weekly Attacks U. S. Branch Extension

London, Aug. 13.—"The United States is on trial for murder," the Labor Weekly of George Lansbury, Laborite member of Parliament said today in sensational appeal for the release of Nicola Sacco and Bartolomeo Vanzetti, Massachusetts labor leaders convicted of murder.

The appeal, appearing under a large caption, "Murder" asserted that "in order to conceal the secret murder of Andrea Salsedo, an Italian worker, by its police, the American government is now preparing to judicially murder two other Italian workers, to wit, Sacco and Vanzetti."

The magazine, after tracing the history of the case concludes: "The American government claims to be the true ark of the ancient common law of England. Well, perhaps, this will quash the good old law, as administered in the bloody assizes."

Bankers Oppose Branch Extension

State and National Bank Executives Launch Big Campaign Against Branch Banking Extension—Believe It is Economically Wrong.

Chicago, Aug. 13.—Leading executives of both national and state banks, members of the American Bankers' Association, have organized a Committee of One Hundred to launch a nation-wide campaign to safeguard the future existence of independent banking throughout the United States by arousing bankers, business men and farmers to the dangers of a spread of branch banking beyond the twenty-two states in which it is now permitted by state law.

Members of the A. B. A. who are opposed to a further extension of branch banking, will ask the association at its next national convention to re-endorse the McFadden Banking Bill as amended by the so-called Hull Amendments. This convention will be held in Los Angeles, October 4th to 7th, inclusive, and the legislative battle of the last session of Congress, when the branch banking section of the McFadden Bill caused that measure to fail to pass, will be repeated.

How Branch Banking Thrives.

The A. B. A. has, in the past, officially endorsed the Hull Amendments, the purpose of which is to confine branch banking to the states where it is now legal, but it is expected a drive will be made by certain leaders in the association who favor an extension of the branch banking system, to reverse the past action of the association and put through resolutions endorsing a further extension of that system. California, the state in which the convention will be held, is one of the states where branch banking thrives.

Several of the large banks having established many branches. The Bank of Italy of San Francisco, for instance, has thirty-eight banking offices in sixty-five cities scattered all over that state and twenty-one in New York city operated under the name of the Bancitaly Corporation. "A considerable majority of the bankers of the United States are opposed to branch banking as economically wrong, monopolistic in its tendencies, and thoroughly un-American in principle," said E. N. Dwyer, secretary of the Committee of One Hundred. "Associations of bankers all over the country have gone on record to this effect, yet the struggle goes on to extend an objectionable system where it is not wanted."

Dangers of Extension.

"The Committee of One Hundred plans to present to the bankers and to the public, evidence of the activities of the proponents of branch banking, the dangers threatening our American system of independent banks, and the monopolistic tendencies of branch banking leading to concentration of the tremendous power of money in the hands of a few, which would strike at the heart of the future welfare of our country."

"Every member of the American Bankers' Association should thoroughly familiarize himself with the facts on this important subject, especially how the extension of branch banking would inevitably lead to the ultimate control of the nation's finances by a few grasping institutions, and then arrange to attend the annual national convention of the Association in Los Angeles, fully determined to do everything in his power to again place the Association unmistakably on record as completely in favor of the Hull Amendments to the McFadden Banking Bill."

The Committee of One Hundred has established offices in the Continental & Commercial National Bank Building, 208 South La Salle street, Chicago.

Rank of Drum Majors

The rank of drum major depends upon the size of the band. The drum majors of the Army, Navy and Marine bands at Washington are holding the highest enlisted rate, respectively, master sergeant, chief boatsman and sergeant major. Drum majors of the smaller bands throughout the service may hold the rank of corporal, sergeant or first sergeant, according to the appointment of the commanding officers.

Wood Versus Steel

An insurance inspector claims that wood is a better risk against fire than steel and concrete. Oak, he said, when charred on the surface, caused to be dangerous, was the safest of all timbers was Lombardy poplar, which refused to burn at all. The most fire-proof building he knew was one timbered entirely with this wood, but the cost for general use is prohibitive and the supply inadequate.

Pygmy Peoples

Three types of pygmies are now recognized: the African pygmies; the island pygmies of the Philippines, Andamans and the Tagpans, probably of African origin, and the Asiatic pygmies of the southern portion of the Malay peninsula, of Celebes, and of some of the jungles of India.

London, Aug. 13.—General Lavitch, leader of the Russian Insurgents near Odessa, has captured the important railway junction of Schermerinka which commands the railway from Kiev, the Daily News correspondent at Vienna, said.

It is also reported that the mutinous Black Sea fleet has captured three of the most important railroad ports of South Russia—Kherzon, at the mouth of the river Dnieper; Sebastopol, in the Crimea, and Kerch on the sea of Azov.

FOREST PARKS PLACE WHERE RICH AND POOR MEET.

Syracuse, N. Y., Aug. 13.—The forest parks are thronged this year with visitors. More is being done than ever before to attract the millions who need and find the health giving benefits of forest recreation, says the New York State College of Forestry, Syracuse University.

Park managers are busy everywhere and the greatest era of park development is in progress. While forest recreation is the cheapest, most available and profitable form of recreation it attracts the well-to-do, the poor and those of moderate means. Any canvass of the types of automobiles will disclose the fact that owners of expensive cars enjoy the roadside picnic, the trail and the camp ground.

The real forest vacationist is not distinguished by his or her financial condition. The rich and the poor are neighbors in the woods, they meet and fraternize under the great democratizing influence of the out-of-doors where the truth of the saying that "one touch of nature makes the rude world kin" is demonstrated on roadside, trail, and around the camp fire.

Park managers find that the largest number of visitors come to stay only a day or a week-end. Most of these are people from the city who escape from the heated pavements into the country to get a breath of invigorating air and obtain relaxation from the routine of their labor. They may bring their luncheon which the family eats under a tree or they may pitch their tent and remain over night. Others move from camp to camp and from park to park enjoying the variation and freedom of gypsy life. The more the people go into the forests the more interest they will take in the preservation of trees and the promotion of forest parks and thus make these open playgrounds render their maximum of service.

Ederle Receives Hearty Welcome

Bismarck, Germany, Aug. 13.—An overwhelming reception marked the entrance of Gertrude Ederle, ace of Channel swimmers, into the birthplace of her father today.

Arriving here by motor car from Stuttgart, the swimmer and her father, were greeted by the mayor and a procession of school children and residents. Virtually the entire city had turned out to greet Miss Ederle.

At the door of the "Lamb Inn," owned by Mrs. Ederle, Gertrude's grandmother, the swimmer was met and embraced by the aged woman.

CURRENT OFFERINGS AT THE THEATRES.

At the Auditorium Theatre this evening, the picture is "The Fearless Lover," also a comedy, "Scientific Husband," and a Bray cartoon. At the Reade Theatre tonight the feature attraction is Raymond Griffith in "Wet Paint." This picture is said to be the greatest laugh provoker of the year.

Rain Stopped Goshen Races.

A number of Kingston men went to Goshen Thursday to see the harness races and state that it became so dark that they were unable to read the score cards or hardly see the horses. They saw but one heat of the first trotting event because a very severe rainfall stopped the other races.
